BARTLETT ON STAND

Former Postoffice Official
Says Subordinate
Signed Lease

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Blaine of the senate committee investigating postal leases, today asked former Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett if he would be surprised to know the beneficiaries of postal leases had contributed over a million dollars to the Coolidge and Hoover campaign funds.

Questioning the former postoffice official during the committee's investigation today, Blaine refused to make public the basis for his question. He said it would be developed tomorrow after the committee finished its questioning of Bartlett.

The latter did not answer the question.

Chairman Blaine asked Bartlett if Frank M. Stearns, close friend of former President Coolidge, had any part in negotiating postal leases.

"He didn't come to me," Bartlett replied.

"Didn't he come to the department?"

"I didn't observe him."

Bartlett said the question of the cancellation clause in the St. Paul lease had been a subject of discussion for many months.

Washington—(AP)—Postmaster General Brown was challenged today in the house, by Representative Maas, Republican, Minnesota, to make public an investigation of charges by Maas against Charles J. Moos, St. Paul postmaster.

Demanding recognition of his recommendation before house Republicans held their caucus on Feb. 27, Maas said Moos was reappointed without a demand to the administration for replacement had been denied.

He said Brown had "forgiven, excused or condoned" Moos after an investigation that "substantiated" the charges. Asking an explanation, Maas inquired:

"Can it be that they are afraid of Mr. Moos?"

The representative said the postmaster had been serving more than a year and that, without reappointment, he was a demand to the administration for replacement had been denied.

Regarding Moos' connection with the St. Paul lease, Maas said:

"He became postmaster before the building was completed and had opportunity to know what a steal it was under his administration that the postoffice department moved in, and the lease was signed calling for $120,775 per year for 20 years. There is doubt the building ever cost $200,000."

Insured by Own Firm

Moos went to Chicago to see the owner and "there he solicited and received the insurance for his own (insurance) firm," Maas added.

More than $1,000,000 insurance negotiated, Maas charged, on the building which a federal court has since valued at $244,000, including the lease.

Maas also charged that after a garage had been built for the government by men "who happened to be connected with an insurance agency of their own," the lease was cancelled and a new building put up by "men who didn't have any insurance connections—at least the new owners are getting a non-cancellable lease—gave Mr. Moos their insurance."

Recently Moos demoted a number of postoffice heads for "alleged disloyalty" and "failure to cooperate," said.

"They failed to cooperate by refusing to violate postal regulations"

Council Drops Plans For Garbage Disposal

Offers Home

Legal action has threatened the offer of Mrs. John Brooks Henderson, above, wealthy Washington woman, to give her $500,000 mansion to the United States government as a permanent home for Vice Presidents. In testimony which a grand daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Wholean, gave before the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, Mrs. Henderson's competence to handle the valuable properties she controls was questioned.

Lake Level Hearing Set For Feb. 24

The meeting of the executive committee of the Fox River Valley League of Municipalities, scheduled for Thursday evening at the home of the mayor of Kaukauna, E. W. Fargo, has been postponed until next week. All the mayors of the valley are members of the committee, and inasmuch as more than half would be unable to attend the meeting tonight it was decided to hold it over until next week. It is probable that it will be called for Monday evening. Final plans for the permanent organization of the league will be made.

The war department announced today that a public hearing would be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 24, in the council chambers of the city hall at Menasha on the subject of the upper limit of water level regulation on Lake Winnebago.

Major H. M. Trippie, of the war department corps of engineers at Milwaukee, will have charge of the meeting. Notice of the hearing from Major Trippie points out that in accordance with a recent order of the war department, the upper limit of regulation has been restored to the level in effect prior to 1925, which is 214 inches above the crest of the government dam at Menasha.

The hearing was called at the request of the cities of Oshkosh and Fond du Lac and the Association for the Relief of High Water at Oshkosh, which object to raising the lake level. The groups want the department to retain the present level, 15 inches above the dam. A higher level, they claim, will cause damage to both cities as well as to riparian land owners along the upper Fox and Wolf rivers.

All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at the hearing. Major Trippie stated that oral statements will be heard, but, for accuracy of record, all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing, in triplicate, as the records of the hearing will be forwarded for consideration to the War department.

AKERSON ENDS JOB AS HOOVER'S SECRETARY

Washington—(AP)—George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover, today reached the end of his official connection with the White House.

The chief executive has selected no one yet to take his place. It was said at the White House that probably no successor would be chosen for several weeks. In the interim Secretary Lawrence Nichols and Walter Newton will divide the responsibilities that until now were Akerson's.

The retiring secretary planned to clear his desk this morning and to leave for New York shortly before noon to assume the executive position with a film company for which he left the White House.

After a week or so in the New York offices Akerson plans to visit the west coast studios of his company, then taking a business trip to Europe.

MAYOR BREAKS TIE VOTE CAST BY ALDERMEN

$65,000 Set Aside for Incinerator to Be Applied on City's Debt

Appleton garbage will not burn in an incinerator. Some of it will be fed to hogs, some of it will be chucked into furnaces, some of it will be dumped in the backyard and some of it will disappear surreptitiously during the night in city ravines, along highways, in the river, or in somebody's empty lot.

After five months of steady argument—from cockroaches and evil odors to incinerators and hogs—the common council returned to the point from which it started and Appleton's garbage disposal problem evaporated into thin air. The council Wednesday night voted, 6 to 6, with the mayor casting the deciding vote, to continue the present system of garbage disposal until the city is better able to carry the load. The individual will continue to dispose of his garbage as he sees fit, the city will attempt to regulate garbage collectors and the $65,000 placed in the city budget for the erection of an incinerator will be applied on the city's debt.

The yeas and the nays each made a final play for victory, but the vote stood as it did a month ago, 6 and 6, and the mayor again cast the vote which shelved the garbage disposal problem for another year. Aldermen again voting with the mayor were Vanderheyden, Groth, Kitterer, Earle, McGilgan and Richard; those against, Packard, Steinhauer, Thompson, Giesner, Wassenberg and Vogt.

Debate Waxes Hot

Cockroaches, the smelly, smoking Superstar dump, rubbish cluttered ravines, the health and beauty of the city, hogs, incinerators, the city's financial situation, the taxpayer, the divided council, the selection of committees, and the right of a man to change his mind all played a part in the final arguments. The many-faceted debate was reviewed for and aft, the speeches were just as nasty, but the vote stayed put.

Alderman George Packard, the only member of the so-called "hog-feeding" committee who refused to sign the report of the group to the council, objected to the charge of unfairness in the selection of the committee, poked at members of the

FIRST STEP TAKEN TO END PRESS GAG LAW

Minnesota's Lower House
Passes Repeal Measure by 68 to 58 Vote

St. Paul—(AP)—Minnesota's news-papers have long been the target of an attack here the United States Supreme court and criticized by newspapers, heads throughout the country, was well on the way to being wiped off the statute books, its opponents said today.

The first major step in that direction was taken today by the state house of representatives which passed a bill to repeal the law. The vote was 68 to 58.

The bill now goes to the senate, where Senator George H. Loomis, of Eveleth, one of the authors of the original measure which was passed in 1925, is sponsoring repeal. Gov. Floyd D. Olson will sign it if finally approved, as he recommended the action in his inaugural address to the legislature a month ago.

The suppression law was designed to apply to newspapers which regularly published "slandorous, scandalous or defamatory matter." Courts were empowered to restrain such publications by injunctions.

While the law was aimed primarily at "slandorous" newspapers, editors of the nation professed to see in it a potential danger to the legitimate press.

One weekly paper in Minneapolis, suppressed by court order, appealed to the United States Supreme court, which recently heard arguments for and against the constitutionality of the law and took the matter under advisement. The Minnesota State Supreme court had ruled that it is constitutional.

FALL STUNS BURGLAR AFTER HE ROBS STORE

Chicago—(AP)—"Come over to my grocery and arrest the fellow who just stole my car," Joseph Dornme, telephoned to the police last night. "He's asleep on the sidewalk."

The officers reported they found Robert Schultze on the sidewalk in front of the store, with a pistol in his hand. Apparently he had stumbled on the steps and fallen face downward, the impact knocking him unconscious.

Outagamie-Co Slow To Meet Red Cross Quota

With only $239 contributed thus far toward Outagamie county's quota of $1,000 in the $10,000,000 sought by the American Red Cross for relief of suffering in the drouth areas of the United States, officials of the Outagamie county chapter fear this county will not measure up to its responsibility in the matter. Thus far the response to the appeal has been pathetically slow and there is grave danger that Outagamie county will not do its full part in the emergency.

The Appleton Post-Crescent found in the appeal of the Red Cross chapter for a cooperation of Outagamie county people. While the people of this county are delaying their contributions thousands upon thousands of people in the drouth stricken areas in south central United States are suffering from starvation. The WILKIE IS NAMED REGENT OF U. OF W.

Prosecutor in Kohler Ouster
Trial Succeeds Chief of Defense Lawyers

Madison—(AP)—Gov. Philip LaFollette today announced the appointment of Harold M. Wilkie, Madison attorney, to the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents to succeed Harry M. Butler, Madison, who was appointed by former Gov. Walter Kohler.

The new regent was born in Fond du Lac, Oct. 23, 1880, and was educated in the common and high schools of that city. After attending Ripon college he was graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law school in 1913.

From 1915 to 1919 he served as a member of the law school faculty. For the past 12 years he has conducted a private law practice here. He is married and has seven children.

Gov. LaFollette's appointment was construed as the first step to rid the board of conservatives appointed by his predecessor. The retiring regent was chief defense counsel in the ouster trial of Gov. Kohler at Sheboygan last spring, while Mr. Wilkie was one of the prosecuting attorneys.

Mr. Wilkie is Gov. LaFollette's second appointment to the board of regents. Recently he announced the appointment of Dr. Gunnar Gundersen, LaCrosse, to succeed the latter's father as a member of the board.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF KILLING BROTHER

Anton Riske Bound Over to May Term of Circuit Court for Murder

Stevens Point—(AP)—Arraigned in county court, Anton Riske, 37, today entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of his brother, John, 25, who was shot to death Monday night as he drove Anton's small sedan.

Young Riske waived examination and was bound over to the June term of circuit court for trial. The court appointed Attorney J. I. Pfiffner to defend him. No relatives of the youth were present at the arraignment.

District Attorney John Meloski, after studying the Wisconsin children's code, announced today that he believed a confessed felon could be prosecuted under the criminal code, rather than the juvenile code, despite his youth.

The youth faced County Judge William F. Over without apparent emotion. He appeared calm as he was led back to the county jail to await trial.

OSHKOSH POLICE FACE PSYCHOLOGY TESTS

Oshkosh—(AP)—Psychology tests for prospective Oshkosh policemen were started today. Eighteen officers took the tests suggested by Mayor T. G. Brown to determine their accuracy, rapidity of thought and gauge their judgment. The tests were given under time limits, before a stenographer who took down their answers. Most questions dealt with their possible actions under given circumstances.

Badger Wet Solons Want Action To Change Dry Law

Madison—(AP)—A legislative committee today was confronted with demands of opponents of prohibition that joint resolutions be passed asking congress to repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment pending wine and beer, or provide for a national referendum.

At a hearing yesterday Senator Thomas Duncan, Milwaukee, opponent of the referendum resolution, said his measure was intended to "eliminate cordwainers among congressmen which exists because they are not sure of the sentiment in their own districts."

Senator James A. Barker, Anti-Social, member of the committee, and Senator Bernard Grishman, Milwaukee, assumed the lead in opposition to prohibition.

"We must accept the personal opinions expressed with the Wisconsin commission report on prohibition as having greater bearing on the case than the report itself," Senator Barker said. "The report was modified only to protect the prohibition at Washington. It told of the people have been wronged 11 years to wait the other two-thirds in jail."

The Rev. Warren D. Jones, representing the Anti-Social League, said the reference to personal opinions should not have been stressed in assailing the report.

"Are we going to allow members of the commission to take a drink with one hand?" Senator Grishman asked. "And tell our people they can't take a drink with the other?"

Assemblyman J. J. Blahnik, Appleton, argued for beer and wine on the premise that "there is nothing so good for the stomach as a good beer wash."

Representatives of the Milwaukee and Madison W. C. T. U. attended the hearing and protested against any change.

BUTLER TRIAL CHARGES WON'T BE PUBLISHED

But Will Be Revealed During Course of Court Martial Session

Washington—(AP)—The navy department does not intend to make public the charges against Major General Smedley D. Butler.

"The navy department will follow the usual procedure," an announcement said. "In the regular course of events the charges and specifications are made public when the accused is arraigned in open session before the court martial sitting in his case."

The Butler court martial will be held beginning Feb. 16, in Philadelphia.

The charges, served on him yesterday, were based on a Philadelphia speech in which he referred to Premier Mussolini of Italy in uncompromising terms. The state department apologized to Mussolini.

Major Henry Leonard, defense counsel, said last night Butler neither desired publication of the charges nor did he desire to withhold their publication.

"It is a matter for determination wholly by the navy department," he said.

FRIENDS DEFEND GENERAL

Philadelphia—(AP)—Friends of Major General Smedley D. Butler, who will be tried here by general court martial for alleged disrespectful remarks about Premier Mussolini, continue to come to his defense.

At the annual dinner last night of the League of the Sacred Heart, an organization of local policemen and firemen, a telegram was read from General Butler saying he was "greatly disappointed not to be able to attend the dinner this year."

This was followed by a short address by President Judge Harry S. McDevitt of the Philadelphia Common Pleas court, who asked for a fair trial for the general.

"It is useless to ask the White House or anyone connected with it to stop the court martial," Judge McDevitt said. "The only way he can be saved is a fair trial by a fair board. He does not have to be disgraced before the world for an indiscreet remark."

SAYS BUTLER MISQUOTE

Phoenix, Ariz.—(AP)—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., reputed source of the Mussolini story that has resulted in General Smedley D. Butler facing a court martial, was on record today as saying the marine officer had "quoted inaccurately" something he heard at the affiliated Lecture bureau in New York last November.

Giving his first explanation of his silence regarding the Mussolini incident since it brought the general a court martial summons, the young newspaper man last night said he would relate correctly what he said originally concerning the Mussolini anecdote, if called as a witness in the court martial.

General Butler in a recent Philadelphia speech, charged the Italian dictator for the scene of an accident wherein an automobile in which he was riding struck a child.

Vanderbilt said he was "bound to respect the strictest confidences" surrounding several incidents related by himself and others in the New York Lecture bureau.

HONOR MEMORY OF MEN LOST ABOARD TUSCANIA

Meanwhile many wreaths will be thrown upon the Milwaukee river.

Case in Court

GEORGE OTIS SMITH

The senate today requested the district attorney at Washington to institute legal proceedings testing the right of Chairman Smith, of the power commission to retain office. The resolution of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, asking the legal action, was adopted without a record vote and without debate.

Schall Turns New Attack On Mitchell

Washington—(AP)—Senator Schall, Republican, Minnesota, today resumed his attack on Attorney General Mitchell for the latter's refusal to endorse Ernest Michel as federal judge for Minnesota.

Schall, in a formal statement, said Mitchell was "defying the constitutional injunction" that nomination be made "with the advice and consent" of the senate. He cited a letter written by Mitchell in connection with the appointment of John J. Parker of North Carolina, to the supreme court.

"The whole purpose of the letter," Schall said, "was to show that the Parker nomination originated entirely with Mitchell. Well, it is to be hoped that he is still proud of it for no one else appears to be."

"It is well recognized now that the nomination, by alienating the honor and colored vote, caused the loss of several states from the Republican party in the recent election. Of course, that does not disturb Mr. Mitchell. As a Democrat he doubtless laughs to himself at the way he has been able to sabotage the Republicans from the issue."

Schall also renewed his criticism of Mitchell for his part in the government's attempt to collect $1,000,000 from the estate of Mrs. James J. Hill. Mitchell, Schall said, appeared as a witness in the case before the circuit court, and Mitchell's testimony, he said, constituted about a third of the judge's opinion.

DEBATE VETERAN BONUS

First Deficiency Appropria- tion Measure Near Final Enactment

Washington—(AP)—Senate leaders came to terms today on relief legislation and forwarded to President Hoover a compromise which they were hopeful would avert a special session.

Meanwhile, the house accepted one of the relief measures demanded by the senate Democrats, but reduced the amount it would appropriate. As approved by the house, this would provide $2,000,000 for medical aid in the drouth area. The senate asked $2,000,000.

Under the compromise $25,000,000 would be added to the loan fund already approved, with some liberalization of the terms under which drouth-stricken farmers could borrow from it.

President Hoover has determinedly opposed any federal appropriation for the purchase of food for the needy, holding the Red Cross was fully able to meet the situation.

The first of the appropriation bills nearing final enactment with house approval of the conference report on first deficiency measure carrying $109,303,000 of which $45,562,000 is for public construction. When the senate approved the report, the bill will be sent to the White House.

The senate took its controversy with President Hoover over the nomination of George Otis Smith as chairman of the power commission to the courts with the adoption of a resolution to seek a test of his right to hold office.

After confirming Smith, it voted reconsideration. President Hoover refused to return the nomination, but the senate went ahead and rejected it. The nominations of Commissioners Garsaud and Draper on which reconsideration also was voted, were confirmed.

Probe Copper Costs

The senate adopted a resolution directing the tariff commission to investigate foreign and domestic copper production costs.

Committees of both houses met on veterans legislation. The senate finance committee heard Veterans administrator Hines recommend a reduction in disability allowances to veterans receiving hospitalization. This he said would discourage them from remaining in government institutions longer than necessary.

In the house ways and means committee, financiers who have testified in opposition to cashing the soldier's adjusted compensation certificates were under attack.

Representative Hancock, Democrat, North Carolina, said they would have drawn a more optimistic picture of business conditions if the treasury had invited them to support the legislation.

The senate campaign funds committee heard itself accused of seeking information detrimental to Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, whose right to office has been challenged by its chairman, Senator Neff of North Dakota. Judge J. Frank G. Armstrong of Pennsylvania, made the accusation.

Justice George W. Maxey of the Pennsylvania Supreme court, told the committee "the voters of Pennsylvania never were and are not now for sale."

Urges Hagerman Retention

The retention of Herbert J. Hagerman of Santa Fe, N. M., as a special Indian commissioner was urged upon the senate Indian committee by Indian Commissioner Rhoads. Charges have been brought against him by Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota.

A bill urged by independent petroleum producers to restrict oil imports was reported favorably by the senate commerce committee and placed on the senate calendar.

The committee also approved the Wagner resolution to authorize a senate study of unemployment insurance systems.

Sponsors of immigration restriction as an unemployment measure urged the house rules committee to expedite its enactment. The legislation in question is intended to reduce immigration by 50 per cent. It has administration approval.

Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, argued before the house agricultural committee that the Florida state government should contribute to payments for damages claimed as a result of the campaign to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Highway Committee Favors Passage Of Cashman Gas Tax Bill

MEASURE SENT TO JOINT BODY FOR APPROVAL

Senate Adopts Resolution to Allow People to Vote on Bond Question

Madison, Wis. — The Cashman highway bill, providing for a 4-cent gasoline tax and repeal of the personal property tax on automobiles, was recommended for passage to the senate today.

The highway committee voted 2 to 1 to recommend it favorably. Sen. John E. Cashman, Democrat, and Sen. John A. Anderson, Republican, recommended passage while Sen. E. J. Roethlisberger, Republican, cast a dissenting vote.

The bill was immediately ordered by the joint committee on finance which will pass on the merits of the measure before it again comes to the senate for debate.

Without debate the senate voted 24 to 2 for adoption of a joint resolution which permits the people to vote on the question of allowing municipalities to bond themselves for more than 5 per cent of their valuation in order to establish municipal public utilities.

The measure was introduced by Sen. O. S. Loomis, Madison, and is one of four embodied in the administration's power program. It was introduced to the assembly immediately after adoption. The 1929 legislature adopted the resolution and if it now gets through the assembly the electorate will vote for or against the proposed constitutional amendment at the 1932 general election. Under the constitution the debt limit is now 5 per cent of the assessed valuation.

Opposes Harper
The senate confirmed the appointment of Mina B. Glazier to the state board of health for a seven-year term by a unanimous vote but the confirmation of Dr. C. A. Harper to the board was opposed by Sen. Cashman who declared the board was not interested in the welfare of the dairy farmer.

Sen. Philip Nelson's resolution memorializing congress to enact legislation for old-age pensions was adopted after Sen. Roethlisberger said it is about time we quit memorializing congress on various questions. He said it was a waste of time and money.

Two bills, one relating to inequities at state penal institutions, and the other proposing the establishment of a state medical grievance committee, were immediately postponed. Sen. Walter Goodland, Racine, introduced a bill relating to indemnity for cattle slaughtered for tubercular control. It would have the state pay the appraised or agreed value, less net salvage and any indemnity received from the federal government, for each animal slaughtered. The state indemnity would not exceed $200 plus salvage.

FIND SUBSTITUTE FOR VITAMIN A, CLAIM

Morgantown, W. Va. — (P) — A synthetic substitute for Vitamin A, the growth factor, has been found at the University of West Virginia. The substance is a combination of iodine, fats and iron. There is nothing mysterious about it. Thus far it has been tried only on rats and the results were obtained quite simply by giving them along with meals ferrous oxide which contains the iodine and iron, and linoleic acid, which has the fats.

OLD BADGER GANG SAW PURCHASED BY FORD

Ashland — (P) — Henry Ford has purchased an old gang saw from the Rust-Owens Lumber company at Drummond, to be placed in his Dearborn, Mich., museum. It was announced by the lumber company here today.

The old saw, which was used to cut several planks out of the log of a tree, instead of sawing off only one at a time as modern saws do, was used until last fall. The Drummond Mill was closed down. Its exact age is not known here, but veteran sawmill men said it was probably one of the few gang saws left in the north woods country.

Drought Is Unbroken In Large Area

Washington — (P) — The devastating and unprecedented drought of 1930 still persists.

Reports of the department of agriculture characterized the week ending yesterday as one of the driest and warmest of record for this season.

"The lack of moisture in large areas," the department reported, especially as relates to the subsoil, continues very acute, especially from the Mississippi valley eastward over the Ohio and Potomac drainage basins. Many complaints of water shortage continue from some of these sections, especially from the upper Ohio valley, where wells, cisterns, many springs, and most small streams are dry in places, and farmers are forced to haul water from considerable distances."

In Arkansas reports of "no rainfall of consequence" continued. In Oklahoma, an important wheat state, there was no rain and soil moisture was short. Tennessee was dry and Kentucky had light showers in its western portions.

While it was an unusually favorable week for farm work, much of the winter wheat belt was without a protecting cover of snow. Yet, the department held, winter wheat was holding up "remarkably well."

This firm holds the county contract to audit the books every quarter. J. C. Schlichter, a member of the firm, is in charge of the work, which will require about a week. A report of the county's finances at the end of 1930 will be prepared by the auditors and presented at the February meeting of the county board.

SCIENTISTS HOPING TO REVEAL SECRET HIDDEN IN UNIVERSE

New Concept Replaces Old Einstein Theory Concerning Other Worlds

Pasadena, Calif. — (P) — A group of famous scientists—astronomers and physicists—today was intent upon prying off the lid of a box of mystery in which they hope to find the secret of the universe.

Literally that is as Dr. Albert Einstein expressed it in an announcement yesterday that swept the old Einsteinian universe into oblivion and erected a new concept in its place.

No longer does he believe in a symmetrical, spherical universe. Such a thing is not possible under his new unified field theory. The evolution of the theory was explained in detail by Einstein, step by step, equation by equation which resulted in the final equation embracing one general law that covers the phenomena of gravitation and electromagnetism and offers a clue to the mystery of the structure of space.

Then Einstein told his fellow scientists that he presented the unified field equation as a closed box, and that he knew of no methods of investigation by indirect or physical experimental means of prying off the lid to see what was within.

Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Carnegie Institution of Washington Mt. Wilson observatory, announced that he and his associates hoped to have the cover off the box soon. It was Adams who made astronomical observations establishing proof of Einstein's relativity theory.

Influence Einstein
Two California scientists caused Einstein to change his mind. They are Dr. Edwin P. Hubble and Dr. Richard Chase Tolman. Hubble sits at the turret of the world's largest telescope and has based secrets of the island universes or distant nebulae. These are great universes like that in which the world exists. There are 30,000,000 stars in it. There are thirty million such other universes, all making the major universe.

Some of these have been observed 300,000,000 light years distant, that is 300,000,000 times six million of million miles.

Tolman, companion of Hubble, is a physicist. He has taken Hubble's observations and evolved the theory that the major universe is expanding with explosive force and is running down because matter is being converted into energy and thus being annihilated.

These two men found that neither the original Einstein concept of the universe, nor that of de Sitter, Dutch astronomer and friend of Einstein, could fit the case. Einstein's old concept was that matter determined the amount of space in the universe, and de Sitter figured that matter was infinitesimal and space was the controlling element. Both conceived a static or fixed universe.

Tolman's calculations indicated a deniable universe, rather than that of the Einstein and de Sitter concept, and suggested a non-static, ever expanding universe.

That a solution is not far distant was the hope expressed last night by Tolman in a dinner honoring Einstein.

He was serving his second term as mayor when convicted.

FINDS FOX RIVER IS BELOW NORMAL

Man Sees Danger of Dirty River When Ice Breaks Because of Low Water

The Fox river at Green Bay, for the last three months has been two feet below the level last spring and one foot below the normal level of 1924, according to Albert Merritt, of Green Bay, who has been studying river levels at Green Bay for 10 years.

Mr. Merritt said there has been slight variations in the height of the water, but generally it has been two feet below the level of the spring of 1930. Mr. Merritt takes the level for 1924 as the normal level, since prior to that time there was little fluctuation, except that which might be expected as a result of the seasons. It was in 1924 that the 15-inch level was placed in effect at the government dam at Menasha through an agreement between the Association for the Relief of High Water and the federal water department.

The low level for the last three months and the lack of rainfall will make the river decidedly unclean when the ice breaks, Mr. Merritt believes, unless a heavy snow falls before spring.

"We have been greatly privileged to walk with him for a few steps on this journey and to look forward with confidence and joyous anticipation to his arrival at the journey's end," said Tolman.

ROOSEVELT PUPILS TO RECEIVE AWARDS FROM OOSTERHOUS

Presentations Will Be Made Friday Morning at Assembly Period

Awards to Roosevelt junior high school students will be presented by A. G. Oosterhous, principal, at Friday morning assembly.

The award system there is based upon a similar one initiated in Roosevelt junior high school in Fond du Lac. It is a method by which the school recognizes junior high school students who have shown interest and ability in scholarship, athletics, music, citizenship or any unusual service rendered to the school.

The award medals are owned by the school, and upon presentation the student who meets all the requirements for an award and qualifies in one major department, receives a bronze medal; a silver medal goes to the student who continues to qualify in his second semester of work; three successive semesters under the same major entitles him to a gold medal. In case of failure to repeat his high standing the student goes backward in the plan one step.

Before any pupil is eligible to be considered for an award he must keep up a certain standard physically, scholastically, and maintain good citizenship and character.

Physical education must be taken at least three times a week; the student must possess a good sitting posture as well as a standing one; he must have a neat and tidy school appearance and use no tobacco. In scholarship a student may not fall below a "C" average in any subject with the exception of music. His citizenship record is judged by punctuality, absence of truancy, classroom conduct, and the regularity of his savings in the school bank. Character is considered by a student's honesty and good manners.

Specific qualifications include a semester average of "A" or "B" in all subjects with the exception of one possible "B" or "C" grade of "A" in citizenship in every class, together with at least a "B" average in classroom study; talent in music and ability with actual play for one half the basketball or soccer season, in athletics.

The school services a student may enter toward winning an award includes the position of cheerleader, an outstanding member of the student council, or work on the school newspaper.

Gauerke alleged he shot the animals because they were molesting his rabbits, holding that under the law he has this right.

REVIVE PLAN FOR WIDENING APPLETON-ST

Council Instructs Engineer to Prepare Plans,
Specifications

The old Apple of discord—the widening of Appleton-st—rolled in to the common council meeting Wednesday night after a six month fuddle. After playing second fiddle to the garbage disposal question for a couple of months, the Appleton-st project dropped into the background for awhile, but a resolution of the street and bridge committee called it back on the stage last night.

The resolution recommended the widening of Appleton-st by five feet. After a parade of the age-old arguments Alderman Mike Steinhauer's motion that action be deferred until the city attorney and engineer could give an opinion on a setback line for Appleton-st and Superior-st was adopted. After the garbage disposal question had been settled Alderman Walter Gruener, chairman of the street and bridge committee, introduced another resolution asking that the engineer prepare plans and specifications and an estimate of cost for the project. Alderman Mike Steinhauer called for an aye and nay vote.

"I want to see how consistent the council is in its attempt to save money," said Alderman Steinhauer

In explaining his action. "I want to see how the mayor will vote.

Another tie vote resulted, and the mayor voted in favor of the engineer preparing plans and specifications. Alderman voting against were Packard, Steinhauer, Thompson, Vanderheyden, Groth, and McGillan; those for were Earle, Gruener, Vogt, Wasenber, Kiltner, and Richard.

Vogt Favors Plan

Arguing that property holders on Appleton-st had a just grievance, Alderman Philipp Vogt stated that inasmuch as the improvement will cost the city nothing, that it will not cause more than $500 expense to each of the two main property holders, and because property holders are paying taxes on a street that is so crowded it interferes with business, he felt the petition of Appleton-st property holders should be honored.

Alderman Walter Gruener, chairman of the street and bridge committee which submitted the recommendation, pointed to the necessity of the improvement, maintaining that with no alleys, trucks delivering goods to stores on the street were constantly obstructing the lanes of traffic. He said the matter had been deferred until 1931, and that action should be taken now.

The necessity of providing an ornamental lighting system after the street is widened was discussed by Alderman W. H. Vanderheyden, while Alderman R. F. McGillan declared that there was no point in taking space from the pedestrian to provide more space for the autoist.

Expressing the opinion that the benefits from a 5-foot widening would not justify the expense, Alderman C. D. Thompson said that five feet would neither provide parking space for a car nor an extra lane of traffic. He reminded the council that though the city bears none of the expense it must advance the money for a year.

Prepare Paving Plans

The engineer was instructed to draw up plans and specifications for the paving of River-dr, Verbrick-st, S. River-st, W. Sumner-st, Ida-st, and the resurfacing of S. Oneida-st.

The annual salary ordinance was adopted with only a few changes. Street department employees will work on an 8-hour instead of a 9-hour basis, but will receive the same weekly wage. New classifications range from 70 cents an hour for foremen, down to 33 cents an hour for labor. The salary of the deputy fire marshal was reduced from $150 a month to $140, and the salaries of the caretaker at the campsite, $1,400 a year, and the attendant at the swimming pool, were stricken from the list.

The names of all violators of the city and state milk regulations will be published monthly.

With four aldermen, Earle, Groth, Richard and Vanderheyden voting against it, the city will appropriate $150 for advertising in the Wisconsin magazine. The chamber of commerce will contribute the other $150 toward a $300 advertising schedule for the city.

The T. M. E. R. and L. company was given permission to operate busses through Appleton on its Shebogan-to-Appleton route. A Class A license was granted to Elmer De Wall, and requests for Class A licenses from Andrew Ries and William Hemingway were withdrawn.

Property Transferred

Property in Telulah park was transferred to the heavy manufacturing district, despite Alderman Thompson's request for a compromise in an effort to save the beauty of the river line at this point. Alderman Steinhauer suggested that the Fourth ward aldermen look into the matter of securing a part of Telulah park for a park for the lower Fourth ward.

Plans for the subway on S. Lawrence-st and S. River-st were referred to the street committee, bids on the touring car for the police department to the police and license committee, the request to place lot 2 block 2 of Newberry plat in the local business district to the planning commission, and the claim by Jake Moeber for garage rent to the judiciary committee and city attorney.

Mrs. Ray Retzlaff, town of Ellington, scalded her left foot Tuesday while she was canning meat in the kitchen of her home. One of the cans exploded, throwing the boiling liquid over Mrs. Retzlaff's leg. She will be confined to her home for about a week.

MILLIONS FOR WISCONSIN VETS IN BONUS BILLS

Payments to Service Men Range from $82,000,000 to $22,000,000

BY RUBY A. BLACK Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—If Congress should pass and the President approve one of the cash bonus payment measures now before Congress, Wisconsin veterans of the World War would get a maximum of $89,600,511; under another, they would get about $46,592,256; and under a third, they would get about $22,400,127.

Under still another proposal, the only one not vigorously opposed by Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of Veterans' Administration, Wisconsin veterans could borrow approximately $46,000,000 on their adjusted-service certificates, whereas they can now borrow only some $22,112,000.

In each case these are maximum amounts, which might be reduced in present cash value by two factors: Doubtless many Wisconsin veterans have borrowed money on their certificates, and thus would, if cash were paid, simply get a cancellation of their debts on their certificates; and in each case cashing the certificates would be optional with each veteran. Some might prefer to save their certificates for their insurance value.

Length of Service
The amount of each veteran's certificate depends upon the length of his service. Regardless of rank, the amount per day is the same, except that no officer above the rank of captain got the certificate.

Counting out the first 60 days of service because each World War veteran got a cash bonus upon discharge, the government calculated the certificates as follows: $1 for each day of service in this country (beyond the first 60 days); $1.25 for each day of service overseas; plus 25 per cent of the total, all bearing interest at 4 per cent a year, compounded annually from Jan. 1, 1925, and payable Jan. 1, 1945.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, supported by eminent bankers, vigorously opposes the cash payments, insisting that issuance of bonds to cover these payments would disrupt the bond market, depreciate the value of outstanding government bonds, and make it difficult for states and municipalities to sell the bonds they are issuing for public works.

$1,010 Is Average
The adjusted-service certificates range in value from $61 to $1,575, the average value (as of 1945) being $1,010. There are 8,478,956 outstanding. It would take $8,512,745,000 to pay off their face value in cash. There is now in the Treasury some $748,000,000 held in reserve to pay off the bonds when they come due on Jan. 1, 1945, or when the veteran dies.

It is predicted here that some measure will be passed, that President Hoover will veto it, and that the veto will be sustained. But all kinds of strange things are occurring in this session of Congress, so that forecasts are dangerous.

One consideration should not be ignored. It is almost certain that the next Congress to be controlled by insurgents and Democrats despite the Republican paper majority, will pass some measure for cash payments unless business improves. The administration may prefer to see a modified loan increase measure passed now to forestall drastic action in the 72nd Congress.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF ATTEMPT TO MURDER

Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Alma Endacott, mother of three children, faced a hearing Wednesday on a charge of attempted murder for the shooting of her husband's former secretary, Miss Charlie Caudell, a University of Tulsa co-ed.

A preliminary trial before Judge Samuel Crossland in common pleas court was to determine whether Mrs. Endacott, wife of Asbury Endacott, Tulsa architect and former city commissioner, should be held for prosecution.

Miss Caudell, dangerously wounded by Mrs. Endacott Jan. 21 on the university campus, is still in a hospital. Physicians say she probably will recover. She has made no statement. Mrs. Endacott, who has been at liberty on a $2,500 bond, asserts Miss Caudell was the cause of an embarrassment in the Endacott home. Endacott has refused to discuss the shooting.

Plan Garden To Follow Lettuce With Flowers

Lettuce is next to the earliest crop harvested in the garden. It is essentially an early spring cool weather crop. Therefore it is out of the way early. Plan the garden to start something along with the lettuce so that when the lettuce is used up the space it occupied will be occupied usefully with good garden material. It may be either with some other and later vegetable or with flowering annuals to brighten up the garden patch and provide bouquets later in the season.

Planning these successions and combinations is one of the chief reasons for putting a garden plan on paper. It is impossible to carry all the original ideas in one's head because when it comes to planting there is a confusion of space and plants that will cause delay in trying to remember what you planned to do. With a plan on paper one need only refer to it and go ahead. An easy vegetable combination would be to plant rows of lettuce three feet apart. Between each two rows could be set a row of cabbage or cauliflower and in the foot and a half between the cabbage or cauliflower and the lettuce a row of radishes could be sown. The cabbages and cauliflowers would need all the space when the lettuce and radishes were gone. Instead of cabbages might be substituted tomatoes or string beans. Instead of a vegetable, between the lettuce rows might be transplanted zinnias, the tall giant flowered kinds needing two feet apart for their proper development. African marigolds might also be used. Both furnish fine cutting material. There would be room for a double row of stars as the plants could be set within six inches of the lettuce as it was nearing its usable material. In place of the lettuce and in the rows occupied by it before it had been used late plantings of that very useful little annual for bouquets, the baby's breath or annual, yarrow, could be planted. Seeds of Shirley poppies or cornflowers for later bloom might also be sown to good advantage. Any annual which comes into bloom in a short season might well be used in this connection.

SAYS FARM PROFITS SHOULD TOTAL $1,200
Madison (AP)—Unless a farm can be run to show a profit of at least $1,200 a year, Eugene Merritt of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, advises young men not to take up agriculture. He made this statement in an address at the annual farm and home week of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture here Wednesday. "Farms are being abandoned in the east at the rate of one per cent a year," Mr. Merritt said. "This should be a warning to young people that they will need to improve on the older methods if they are to be able to farm successfully." He showed that $1,200 a year on the farm is equivalent to more than $2,500 a year for the city dweller.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WHY LEGISLATION IS SLOW

"They ought to get down there and wind up the state's business in a few weeks," says the average individual about the members of the legislature. Yet as soon as anyone actually tries to greatly speed up matters of legislation the same people have a feeling that in the hurry attendant upon speed, careless laws may be the result.

The first act introduced in the Wisconsin senate and therefore known as 1-S will serve to show the reasons why careful legislation cannot be brought about as swiftly as many may suppose. This act introduced by Senator Keppel merely provided that a certain section of the statutes "prohibiting ice fishing in all counties of the state other than in specified counties, shall not be enforced during the year 1931." Apparently as an afterthought the same senator, realizing that the legislature would not be in session in 1932, introduced a substitute amendment to his own measure to cover the year 1932 as well.

Then Senator Carroll introduced an amendment to this substitute amendment providing that the exception should not apply "in Ashland, Iron, Vilas, Price, Rusk and Sawyer counties," no doubt because some reason or argument worth while has occurred to him. Then came Senator Barker and introduced another amendment to except from the exception certain paragraphs of the fishing law.

Next came Senator Blanchard with an amendment giving to the conservation commission of the state "if in its opinion an emergency exists" power to suspend the enforcement of the law during the year 1932. It is clear that it was his opinion that instead of suspending it entirely for the year 1932 suspension should depend upon the then existing circumstances.

But Senator Daggett had another idea and offered it in the form of Amendment No. 4 to the effect that "no one fisherman should be permitted to use more than three lines at any one time." Now it was clear enough to Senator Roberts, who introduced the next amendment, that one fisherman with three lines might get too many fish so in his amendment No. 5 the quantity of this fish is limited to five pounds unless, perchance, the catch consisted of one fish weighing more than five pounds which would be considered lawful.

But Senator Shearer, not entirely satisfied with the proposals concerning fishing through the ice offered amendment No. 6, differing from Senator Barker who introduced amendment No. 2 as to other paragraphs of the law which should be left enforced.

Here is a matter perhaps not of general interest or great moment to the people and yet in which each legislator is bound, if satisfied that some idea coming to him be correct, to suggest the same, put in printed form and deposit it upon each senator's desk.

In order to thresh out all these different ideas committee meetings are held, the public is invited, every person who wishes to be heard is or should be heard. When the committee agrees upon a measure it must still stand the test of a vote in the open senate. And when the senate agrees it must still go into the assembly where there are three times as many members who may have three times as many opinions.

The work of the legislature is not easy. Conscientious men have a wide variety of opinions. It takes time to suggest them, time to hear all parties, time to consider and time to vote. While some legislative sessions may have lasted unreasonably long, the delay ought to inure to the public benefit, unless it is due alone to political by-play.

The people should be patient with those who are consuming time when the time consumed results in a more careful consideration of the questions submitted.

MR. RYAN IS HONORED

A well deserved distinction was conferred this week by the University of Wisconsin upon an Outagamie county farmer, Malachi Ryan. His selection as one of the five outstanding farmers and homemakers of the middle west was a fitting recognition of his leadership in the progressive agricultural practices that have placed Wisconsin among the foremost farming states of the union.

A high type of courage was necessary for Mr. Ryan to begin the application of scientific principles to the cultivation of crops and the breeding of livestock more than a quarter century ago. Science in farming was regarded with marked suspicion and the hardy soul who would apply "book learning" to planting corn or buying a cow was subjected to illy-concealed ridicule and distrust. Even at a much later date the experts from the university were regarded as idle theorists unworthy of the respect of the real "dirt farmer."

But Mr. Ryan, his vision undimmed and his spirit undaunted, continued his studies and worked out his experiments with the result that not only he but all his neighbors profited from his work.

Years ago, when the idea of a county agricultural agent still was new, Mr. Ryan was one of the few farmers in this county to encourage agitation for appointment of that official. It required years to win sufficient support to bring this about, but now there scarcely is a farmer in Outagamie county who is not willing to admit that he has been materially benefited by the agent's work.

The recognition of the University of Wisconsin of Mr. Ryan's leadership, valuable as it is to Mr. Ryan, is of still greater value in that it will serve to encourage others to carry on. The price of leadership is hard work and discouragement but its reward is the grateful acknowledgment of fellowmen. Mr. Ryan has experienced the hard work and the discouragement and now he has received the reward he has richly deserved.

MODERNIZING THE BATTLESHIP

It is hard to find much reason to quarrel with the senate for voting money to modernize three old battleships which navy experts had pronounced out of date. Opponents of the measure asserted that all battleships are obsolete anyway, and declared that this nation is under no necessity of keeping its battle fleet up to the level of Britain's, but the senate voted the modernization funds in spite of these protests.

The London naval treaty would seem to have set a good gauge for the American fleet. If we are to maintain a naval establishment at all, we might as well maintain a good one; and as long as the heads of our navy believe that the battleship still has value, we might as well keep our battleships up to date. The general question of naval armament reduction does not seem to enter into this particular situation at all.

THE STRAPHANGER

The Illinois legislator who has introduced a bill providing that anyone who collects money for rides of any kind of public conveyance and then makes a passenger stand up shall be fined $25 may not accomplish anything, but he is sure to receive the ardent good wishes of the great army of straphangers.

It is not at all surprising to learn that the author of this proposal lives in Chicago and has to ride the street cars and buses every day. He has probably been hanging onto straps for so long that his soul rebelled; and it is no wonder.

Compelling passengers to stand up is, when you stop to think about it, a barbarous practice. The remedy probably does not lie in a new law; but anyone who wants to do mankind a service could do a deal worse than devote himself to the problem of providing a seat for every rider.

PIKE'S BIRTH
On Feb. 5, 1779, Zebulon Pike, an American soldier and explorer after whom Pike's Peak is named, was born in Lamberton, N. J., the son of an army officer.
At the age of 15 he was a cadet in his father's regiment and was made a first lieutenant six years later. On Aug. 3, 1805, he started from St. Louis on an expedition to reach the source of the Mississippi and was successful, returning a year later.
He then immediately began the exploration of the Arkansas River, which he ascended to Pueblo, Colo. After discovering Pike's Peak, he visited the site of the present town of Leadville.
He was promoted to the rank of major in 1808, colonel in 1812, and brigadier general in 1813. He died of wounds received in the expedition in Canada.

NOW THEY'VE explained the weather to us. It's been rainy just because a lot of heavy air over the Rocky Mountains refuses to move. . . . That's out in the Utah and Idaho districts. . . . well, that's easy to understand. . . . Senator Borah of Utah has been in the east all winter. . . . if he were back home, that stationary air over his state would soon be violently agitated and we'd have one of the coldest winters on record. . . . keep Borah in Washington and we'll have mild winters. . . . or go to Cuba and be sure of it. . . .

Just as we were about to give up nuzzpepper work and become a doctor, we read about the lady in Washington, wife of a medico, who held a dinner for her husband and several of his doc friends.

Well, the meal hadn't even begun when a guest got an emergency call and had to beat it. Just as somebody yelled "soup's on" another doctor had to answer a call. As they were going into the dining room another doc was forced to leave. The maid brought on the oyster cocktails and darned if the fourth doc didn't get a phone call.

"Well," said the lady of the house, "all I can—"

And then her husband was called away. And she ate the meal alone.

But what we stated out to say was that we aren't going to be a doctor after all. Hate to have our meals disturbed.

But there are still a lot of people who would like to have us become a doctor if we took up our practice in the Scilly Islands or somewhere. Maybe Eiba.

Just as we got Amphibian—our gas-fed kiddie car which smoothly plows over land and water and bounces into the air—in running order, we learn that airplane rates have been reduced. If it isn't one thing, it's another.

FASHION NOTE: Both the National and American baseball leagues have gone in for more pronounced stitching on their baseballs. Players will spend the dull months before the training season opens in crocheting and embroidering these clever little things.

The weather yesterday got people into the frame of mind where they were telling each other how sorry they felt for the people up north who had to suffer from cold this winter.

And it set a lot more to polishing up the golf clubs and forgetting absolutely everything about those solemn vows to swear off golf forever and ever.

Which reminds us about the movies that Bobby Jones is to make showing what's correct in golf. That's alright. But Wes Pegler wants to star as the "punkiest golfer." Maybe we'll have something to say about that.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THE GOAL

For years he'd had a goal in view,
Fought, schemed and struggled long to gain it,
Talked it with every one he knew,
Grew weary striving to get it;
Keen disappointment set him back,
Failure along the way delayed him,
Briars and stones which strewn his track
A tired and footsore traveler made him.
But he kept on with purpose true,
He'd rest when all his cares were ended,
The distant goal he had in view
Glistened with charms which men think splendid,
There he would dream the hours away,
There waited for him days of pleasure
Where all untroubled he could stay
With naught to do but spend his treasure.
Came victory at last, and then
Full rested he began to sigh for
The thrill of setting out again,
He wished another goal to try for.
Still on and on he longed to go,
Boredom along the way was blighting,
He wanted once again to know
The weariness and pain of fighting.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Thursday, Feb. 8, 1906

Albert Rule and Fred Sorensen, employees at the Sherman hotel, were to leave Appleton the latter part of the month and were to assume the charge of the Hotel La Fontaine at Green Bay on March 1.

John Conway left that morning for Chicago on a brief business trip.

H. K. Dimmock had opened a real estate and loan office at 841 College-ave, upstairs.

Miss Anna Tenney was spending a few days as a guest at the home of the Misses Underwood at Wausau.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Wertheimer, Kaukauna, had gone to New York, Boston, and other eastern cities on a week's trip.

Charles Paee had returned that morning from Wausau where he went to attend the annual meeting of the Fox River Fair and Driving association.

Mrs. Thomas Pearson and daughter, Mrs. R. D. Bertsch, entertained a number of guests at cards at the home of the former on Prospect-st the preceding afternoon.

TEN YEARS AGO
Thursday, Feb. 3, 1921

Two hundred thousand railroad employees had been laid off by sixty-four railroads of the country since Sept. 1 of the preceding year, according to a recent survey.

The marriage of Miss Laura Watson, daughter of Mrs. Ida Watson, Washington-st., to Oscar Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyer, 1118 Fifth-st., took place that evening in St. Joseph's church.

H. C. Rusch, John Lueders, and John Rechner of Rusch Hardware company were attending the annual convention of Wisconsin Hardware Dealers' association in session at Milwaukee.

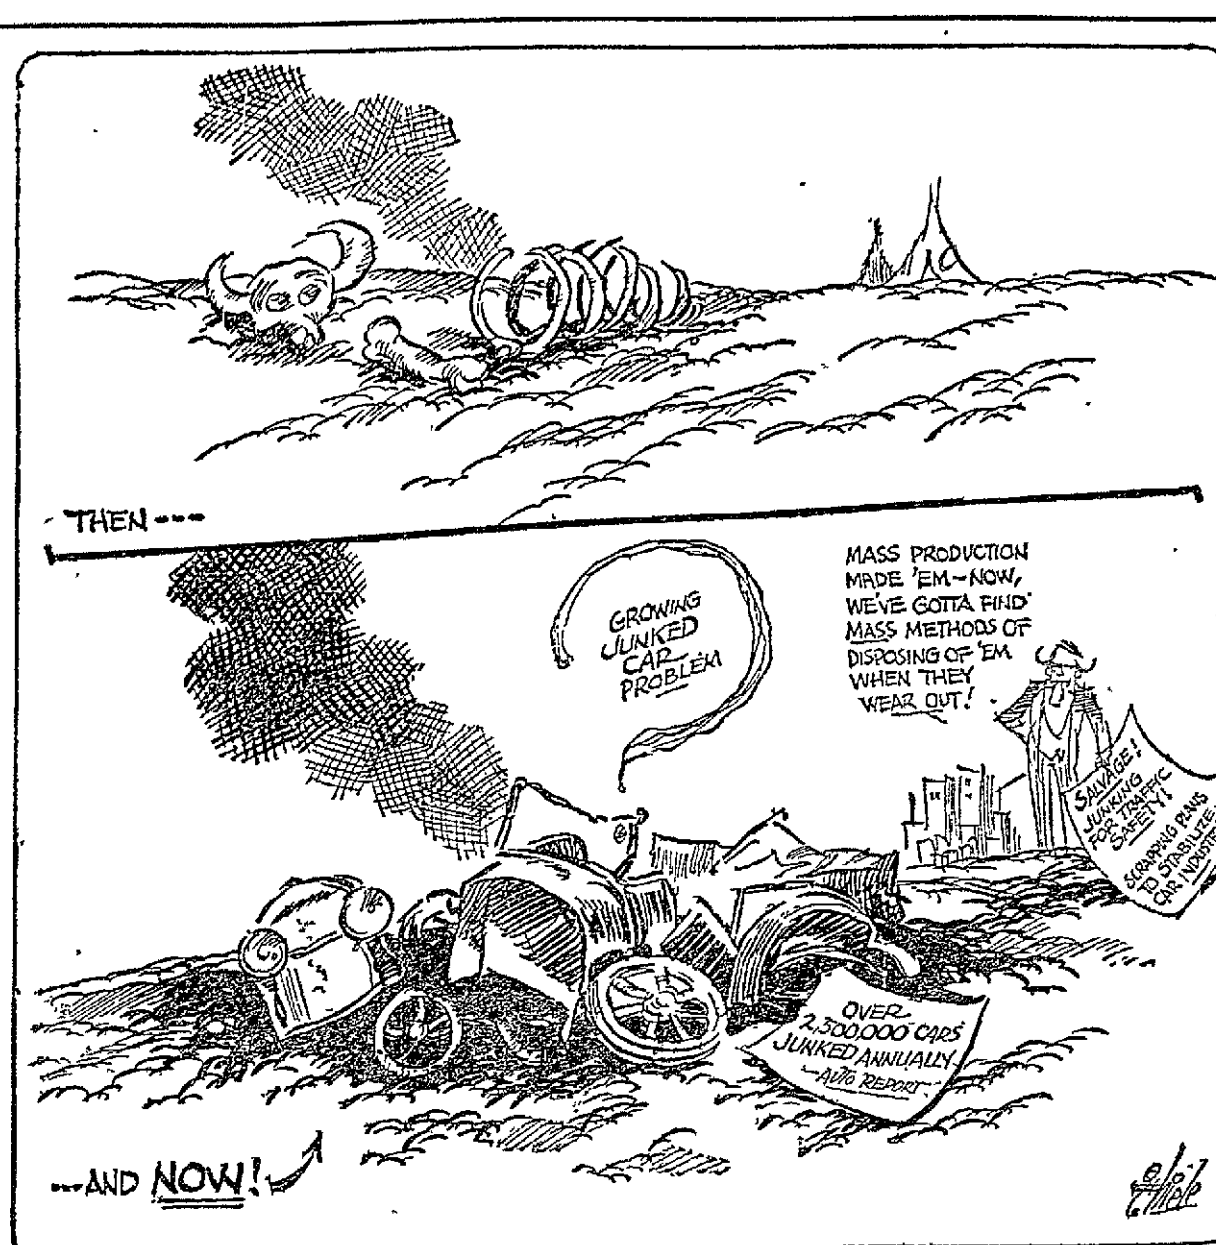

Mrs. Arthur Schneider, 730 College-ave, spent the previous day with her mother, Mrs. J. E. Whisner, and sister, Mrs. Henry Hecker, Oshkosh.

Mrs. C. R. Nagren and Miss Pearl Nagren visited at Menasha the first of the week.

Albert Brite was attending the automobile show in Chicago.

George Lavin spent that day at Fond du Lac on business.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE DOMINIE BOBS UP AGAIN COMPLAINING THAT HE STILL HAS A TAG OF TONSIL

Some of our old readers, especially those who have had bad tonsils and some form of focal infection therefrom, may remember that we have given the pastor a break here at least twice, first when he wrote and asked what he was to do, since the good doctors had assured him nothing could be done to relieve him, because of his age and general poor condition; and later to let the good man tell how much benefit he had experienced from the diathermy extirpation of his tonsils, which had been performed, I regretted to confess, by an osteopathic physician, where the corn and the culis grow luxuriantly.

I hoped we had finished off the minister in workmanlike shape, but you just can't keep a good man down, it seems. Here he is again, and I begin to suspect he is suffering with hysteria or a complex or a delusion or something, for he solemnly affirms that he still has a bit of tonsil and worse still, it worries him. Very well. But I want it distinctly understood that this is the third and last chance we're going to give the dominie. Next time he comes complaining around here he'll be coldly informed that the doctor is confined in the asylum and . . . just listen to the maddening minister:

Dear Dr. Brady.

I write again about diathermy because I suppose it is of interest to you as it is to me. I am with you. (Well, of course we're glad to know the patient is still with us, but we hope he is not going to be too insistent about it. Unless something very extraordinary happens we may safely assume that patients who have their tonsils extirpated with diathermy will be with us after the operation. That is indeed one of the salient features which distinguish this treatment from the old Spanish custom.)

I told Dr. ——— that I felt some discomfort in my throat after those five treatments. He said my tonsils could not bother me any more because they are gone. I expected this discomfort would disappear after some weeks, but it seems to get worse.

Yesterday I went to a doctor, a real M. D., in ——— and he told me that on each side is still a tag of tonsil the size of a split pea. He surmised that the operator had been afraid to take them out entirely, as they were too deep or the operator feared injury to my voice. But he says the fact is they are still there.

Never mind. A great part of my tonsil has been successfully removed. This M. D. thinks it is perhaps better so. He hopes to make the rotten bits of tonsil still in my throat harmless by medical applications and by gargling with (a silly nostrum). For my blood pressure he recommended sweats, avoiding meats, etc.

Please let me know what shall I write to Dr. ——— (the osteopath who extirpated the tonsils)?

Gratefully yours,

Rev. ———

The present doctor may be a real M. D., but he is too optimistic. I shall say, if he really imagines he can clear up the trouble with medical applications and the pretty nostrum fort would disappear after some weeks, but it seems to get worse.

Note the pastor had only five treatments. In many cases it is necessary to return to the physician some weeks or months after the diathermy treatment, to have any bits or tags of tonsil tissue "touched up." Even if a surgical tonsillectomy has been done by the most skillful throat surgeon, this final inspection and "touching up" with diathermy is an excellent practice.

So I advise the dominie to go back to the osteopath who extirpated his tonsils, and have the final treatment.

Incidentally I challenge any doctor of standing to put in print or

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cripple Restored by Diathermy

For about two years I was crippled with rheumatism. Through your column I learned about diathermy and have had my tonsils taken out that way by Dr. ———. Now I am fine, and can do all my own housework, and I walk a mile a day. I am a woman 67 years old and doctors who believed the rheumatism came from bad tonsils told me nothing could be done because of my age. . . . (Mrs. A. Z.)

Answer—A medical colleague writes that he commends my stand for surgical diathermy because he knows the problem of surgical tonsillectomy from all angles, but he begs me not to be too hard on the one-way man, who can't help being narrow-minded and can't learn this alternative technique now. I hope I am not too hard on any fair-minded doctor, but I believe I cannot be too hard on the doctor who, without having any actual knowledge of electro-surgery, brazenly tells confiding patients that the new method is "no good" or even "dangerous."

Doctors who take such an attitude should be exposed as unreliable advisers, and there is a growing army of ex-patients like Mrs. A. Z. who know such doctors are unreliable.

The Return of Old Dan Druff

I have been a reader of your column for many years, not only here but . . . about a year ago I tried your formula for dandruff with amazing results. But the kindly druggist lost the formula and I think Dan is coming back again. . . . (C. M.)

Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and mention your trouble. Sometimes I think the druggist figures in an additional 10 per cent on the charge, for mislaying the recipe.

Iodin Ration Rejuvenates

I have just completed the first month's iodine ration as suggested by you, and it has worked a splendid improvement physically and mentally. I am much appreciative of your teachings which have brought me relief and a better temperament. I am 65 years old and stepping out like 45. (C. W. J.)

Answer—At that, a lot of crusty old codgers of 35 or 40 sorely need an iodine ration, if they only know it. Even if it doesn't stop the hair from growing gray and the arteries from growing brittle, it does help to prevent premature aging and going stale.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

SOME women, too were at the task of weaving carpets. "Guess I'll ask them how they do their work so well," said Scouty. "They won't mind, I'd like to learn that work." "What fun!" I'll bet they're pretty when they're done I'm going to look around until some friendly man I find.

Not far away he came up to a man who promptly said he knew of little boys who also helped their parents with their task. "From morn till night, most every day, they work a while and then they play," said he. "If there are other things you want to know, just ask."

"What do you see the carpets for?" said Carpy. "Why, upon the floor," replied the kindly weaver. "And to sleep upon them, too."

"I don't like them," they'd be a mess, but they're good enough, I guess. I've used them now, for years and years. They're softest when they're new."

Then Carpy said, "Hey lad! Watch me. I've been as lucky as can be. A weaver's going to let me try my luck at this queer task."

Then, while the man explained just how, the weaver said, "Be careful!

Seen And Heard
In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York.—Is New York America? Some whimsically say, "No, it is not!" Some don't care one way or the other.

But Robert E. Sherwood, editor and playwright, has gone to some length—a couple of hours of well-selected words, in fact—to make the point that New York, after all, is America.

May I go out and play, therefore, and let him write the column?

Local Boy Speaks Up

Mr. Sherwood is virtually a New Yorker. He was born in New Rochelle, a few minutes away from the theater where his play, "This Is New York," ran a few weeks.

In that play he displayed a local pride worthy of a small-town chamber of commerce. And he has written a preface to the published version, in which he iterates the argument.

"Wherever there is a saxophone, or the echo of one; wherever there is a raveling machine, or an argument over contract bridge, or a violation of the speed laws, or a photograph of Clara Bow, or a bottle of illicit gin—there is New York," says Mr. Sherwood.

Then he shoots his major shaft, which hits, not our middle-west (anyway, mine) but his own community. New York is not New York, but Broadway and by his reasoning that makes America Broadway. Do you follow me? Well, then, let him explain.

"If you would find that definite being known as the typical New Yorker . . . you would look for him on Broadway and you would find him," Mr. Sherwood writes.

Urging the student of sociology to attend ever contract bridge, New York first night, he continues:

"If he can force his way through the drifts of ermine, the tropical tangle of ornate decorations and the Guerlain mists, he will discover just why it is that New York is hated and feared and envied. He will see the efforescence at the summit of the main stem which gives to New York its unique identity and its bad name.

ferent aspect then he is known today.

In January, 1927, he was secretary of state, and the Mexican-Nicaraguan situation was causing much concern in the senate. Members were in Nicaragua and senators were attacking vigorously the policy that permitted their presence there.

Kellogg was assailed on all sides. Attempts were made to force his appearance before congressional committees, to explain personally various steps his department had taken.

On the floor of the senate he was accused of "unlustrous" with government officials in Nicaragua. He heard his memoranda on the situation described by a senator as the "finest sort of propaganda."

Back With Honors

That was in January, 1927. In January, 1931, Kellogg visited the senate for the first time since he left that body. He came at the age of 74, just embarking upon a new career as:

A member of the world court of international justice.

Author of what is considered by many one of the greatest gestures for peace in the world history. Winner of the coveted Nobel peace prize.

His annoyance at suggestions that he was using his privileges of the senate floor to further the cause of the world court was doubtless prompted by his own knowledge of lobbying.

He sat as a United States senator long enough to know that probably the most effective lobbying is carried on neither in the senate chamber nor in the lobby or cloakrooms, but in the private offices of the senators themselves.

Bad Habits Blamed On Environment

Parents have a strange blindness. Without regard to the actual conditions, without regard of anything but their desire to have a child of whom they can be proud, they bend every effort to force the child into being what they picture him to be. Though no member of the family ever knew a good picture from a bad one, no cared to know, the child must be an artist. Though the family have been artisans for generations and neither knew nor cared about science, the child must be a great scientist. Greatness must come in some form or other lest the family be disgraced.

Conduct is a source of great distress to parents. The child has a bad temper and makes the family miserable. The fact that his father had a much worse one seems not to enter into the matter. The child must be wrong. To be sure the child is wrong and he will be wrong just as long as his father teaches him that temper tantrums are acceptable in his sight. Can a man say that he desires sweet temperance when he raises like a wild animal?

Amateurism troubles teachers and parents. A child chews his lips. Another bites his nails. Another twists a lock of hair. Another sniffs. Impatiently teacher and parent correct the child. Look well to yourself. What has frightened this child into worrying? Nothing? Well, what mannerisms have you? Sure? Is he copying your manner of speech, or action, or behavior? It is more than likely. Very often the cause of a child's undesirable habits lie within his immediate environment.

Sometimes they are due to poor health. (Are you sure the poor health is not due to some lack of management, some remissness in method or practice on the part of those close to him?) Of those in charge of him? Search well in your own being for the cause of a child's failure. You will be the more understanding and the more helpful for it and the child will benefit.

Mental attitude can not be hidden from the children. If a parent dislikes or fears a child and this has happened, the child will soon discover the fact and act accordingly. If a teacher dislikes a pupil he soon knows it and responds to the dislike in his conduct and in his work. The rule works both ways, but it is, in my experience, stronger on the negative side. It is easier to strike fear into the soul of a child, easier to set him on the defensive than it is to set him free and fill him with courage.

Parents and teachers have a difficult task. Nobody knows that better than I, but I know, too, that our tasks can be lightened by searching within ourselves for the cause of some of our troubles. We can try to eradicate our own undesirable traits and so inspire the child to do likewise.

Children are like their parents, a little more emphasis here and there, but essentially like. Heredity counts and example is all powerful.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

IMPURITIES IN SKIN DISSOLVED BY SALT BATH

BY ALICIA HART
For a first class, tonic bath, nothing is better than the sea salt bath. You can purchase sea salt at any drug store. If you can't find any, common kitchen salt is an effective substitute.

You should put from a half cup to a whole cup of salt into a hot tub of water, depending on the size of the tub. Most tubs need a full cup and a very big tub calls for a little more.

This bath should be sat in for some few minutes, with a brisk brushing up and down the limbs, arms and body, while in the tub. It invigorates and stings the flesh into a liveliness.

The Epsom salts bath is in a class by itself. It is claimed to have reducing qualities and I daresay more Epsom salts have been used for this purpose than all other kinds of bath salts put together. It must be taken hot to slenderize. Moreover, you must sweat afterwards, rolled in a blanket or put in a steam room.

But the Epsom salts bath serves as a tonic and is excellent for soaking out the impurities in the skin. Put a full cup of Epsom salts in a tub of hot water and sit in it for 20 minutes, adding hot water as the temperature of the bath cools.

Other tonic bath salts can be had by purchasing certain European mineral salts that have potassium iodine in them. Two tablespoons of these salts are usually sufficient to produce the same effect of a reducing treatment at one of the spas. You use very hot water with them and sit in it for from 15 to 20 minutes.

Another salt bath probably grew out of the fact that some fastidious lady once traveled without a private bath attending. She had to have her salts bath, so she invented this substitute. Take a cup of kitchen salt, put in a basin of cold water, dip a harsh sponge or a body-brush into it and scrub yourself up and down the arms, across the chest, the back and on down, even dipping the feet, one by one into the cold salt water and out again. Then dry yourself with a Turkish towel, giving yourself the best rub-down you've ever administered or had administered. This, incidentally, is a fine step towards getting the skin all smoothed out and refined all over the body.

SAYS LONGLEY CALLED PLAINTIFF HIS SON

Chicago — (AP)—David Jamieson, who lived 40 years ago on a farm northeast of Janesville, heard Albert W. Longley, late millionaire hat manufacturer, call George Adair Greene Longley his son, he told the jury in circuit court late yesterday. He explained this as a witness for Jamieson who is trying to break the mortgage on the estate of $1,000,000 to his third wife, Mrs. Mary Caroline Longley of Los Angeles.

Jamieson explained how he was visiting the Longley estate driving a party when a ten year old boy rode upon a pony.

"Whose youngster is that on the pony?" someone asked.

"That's my son," Jamieson quoted the elder Longley.

W. H. Chesbrough, St. Civil war veteran now living in Detroit, Wis., who also attended the party, corroborated the details given by Jamieson. Chesbrough said he was the one who asked the question about the boy on the pony.

26 REVICKS VAPORURE OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

MY NEIGHBOR Says—

When powdered or confectioner's sugar becomes lumpy, press it through a fine meshed sieve or roll with a rolling pin.

The water in which rice has been boiled is splendid for rinsing muslin and lace curtains after they have been washed. It makes an excellent substitute for starch and gives these delicate fabrics just enough firmness without imparting any of that stiff stick-together look that the in-expert starcher so often produces.

To open fruit jars easily set them upside down in hot water for about five minutes. Don't have the water too hot or the tops will crack.

At least once a year take down shades, stretch them out on a flat surface and after dusting them thoroughly, go over them with a wet (not dripping) cloth rubbed lightly with white soap, clean a portion of the shade at a time, rinsing off the soap with a cloth squeezed out of clear water. Dry thoroughly.

STEADY GAINS FOR ST. LOUIS IN TEN YEARS

City's Growth Not Rapid but Steady Progress Is Recorded

St. Louis —(P)— The century's third decade, which brought sensational population increases to several American cities, saw St. Louis continue the slower, steadier growth which has characterized its municipal life.

Within the corporate limits, which have not been expanded since 1876 and which embrace an area of 61 square miles, inhabitants increased from 772,897 to 821,960, a gain of 6.3 per cent. The city proper and its immediate suburbs grew from 1,071,410 to 1,293,049, or 20.6 per cent.

Efforts to extend the city boundaries, the latest of which failed at an election last November, have been hampered by the unique status of the city—a part of the state yet not a part of any county for more than 50 years. Under terms of a recently adopted constitutional amendment, annexation of outlying urban districts is authorized without a state election, and civic leaders regarded this as the ultimate solution of the problem.

Meantime a forward-looking municipal construction and improvement program is being pushed to completion, with the double object of expediting traffic and beautifying the city. Chief among the projects undertaken or finished by the city during the last 10 years are:

A new waterworks $12,000,000; River des Peres reclamation project $11,000,000; widening of streets $8,650,000; electric street lighting system $8,000,000; sewer improvements $8,000,000; municipal auditorium $5,000,000; civil courts building $5,000,000; memorial plaza and buildings $6,000,000; Union Station plaza $2,600,000; grade crossings and viaducts $1,600,000; new public markets $1,250,000; aquarium in forest park $400,000.

It is estimated that close to a half billion dollars is being spent by private enterprise in construction and developments.

Commerce Growing
In manufacturing and commerce strides have also been taken. Since formation of the Industrial club in 1927 nearly 200 firms have located factories, headquarters or branches in St. Louis. Known as a great fur market, the city has grown into one of the principal shoe manufacturing centers. Aviation, too, has flourished because of the city's strategic location.

Transportation facilities have been improved by the Federal Inland Waterway development, for St. Louis is the focal point of a system connecting 29 principal industrial cities of 20 states in the Mississippi valley. Completed, this system will, it is estimated, save $100,000,000 annually. Already St. Louis firms have service south to New Orleans almost without interruption, and north to Minneapolis eight months out of the year.

Physical plant facilities of Washington and St. Louis universities, the city's leading institutions of higher learning, have been greatly increased. St. Louis has the only free cancer hospital in the country.

CASH BONUS MENACE TO BUSINESS, CLAIM

Washington —(P)—Rome O. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers association, testified Wednesday that cashing veterans service certificates would make hopes of gradual business recovery seem "ill founded."

Before the house ways and means committee, the banker reiterated his belief the "nation is now headed back toward economic recovery."

Stephenson termed the nation's present condition "one of the greatest business depressions of its history," and attributed it to "economic surprises."

Upholding Secretary Mellon's opposition to cash redemption of the veterans adjusted compensation certificates, he said he spoke "not primarily for the banks or for any particular interests, but essentially for the far greater welfare of all our people."

Children's Sore Throat

Relieve it Without Prolonged and Gargling!

To clear up a sore throat you have to kill the irritating germs lodged in the throat. That takes gargling with an antiseptic. But your old-fashioned antiseptic is so low in germicidal power it takes frequent and prolonged gargling to make any effect. An amazing new-type antiseptic replaces all that. McKesson's Ectol is the "10 second germicide." It is so fast and effective, a one-minute gargling with Ectol is equal to hours with ordinary products. Also, it is extremely penetrating, which is just as important. It penetrates the folds and crevices in the mouth and throat. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs hidden underneath the outer layer of mucus. In other words, it reaches the germs that ordinary preparations miss. That's why three one-minute garglings with Ectol will usually clear up any oncoming sore throat, nose or head cold. That's why it's used daily as a regular measure, Ectol will prevent these infections. Ectol is delightful to use. So refreshing it makes your ordinary mouth wash seem insipid by comparison. Economical too, as it costs less. Just permits greater dilution. For sale at all McKesson Service Druggists and all independent drug stores. Note the name, ECTOL — a McKesson & Robbins product.

The Story of Sue by MARGERY HALE © 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE nodded as Jack told her that he must see her mother alone. She wondered what he wanted to find out but she didn't have time to ask any questions. The detective, followed by Mrs. Merryman, had arrived in the furnace room.

"Hello. Warming things up?" the man who was spokesman asked. "We don't want to interfere with you, but we have a little investigation to do. We might as well start right here."

"Surely. Go right ahead," Jack said, in an easy, nonchalant voice. "Do you mind if we go upstairs? My hands aren't clean after close association with the coal bin."

"Not a bit. Just wait. We'll be with you in a minute," Sue tried to keep her eyes from Jack's. She knew that there was fight in them and also that she was being watched. She didn't want the detectives to intercept any glances.

Once upstairs, the detective called Mack waited while Jack washed his hands at the kitchen lavatory.

Jack's gray eyes were smoldering and his mouth was tight. Sue knew that he was angry at the close watch which the men were keeping. Sue had recognized their type at once. The arrogant detective, who tries to be sociable without letting the people forget for one minute that he wears a badge and represents the law.

Sue, meantime, was trying to get the men away from her mother so Jack could ask his question, but her ruse didn't work. The men seemed to think that they had three prisoners who needed watching.

The door opened suddenly and Corrinne came in. One glance told her what was happening and she sat down in a low chair and eyed the men coolly.

She hadn't been there more than two minutes when the doorbell rang again and a messenger boy handed in a long, gray-green floral box. "It's for you, Mother," Sue said, and passed the box to her.

"I'll open it later," Mrs. Merryman answered, pushing it aside, but one of the detectives interrupted. "No, go right ahead. We'll take time out for surprises anyway."

"Part of your business, isn't it?" Corrinne asked with a sneer she didn't try to conceal.

"Better be careful or I'll have you up for contempt of the law," the man answered.

Corrinne laughed lightly and a dozen little bells rang with silvery mockery. "If you're the law then I'm of the opinion that it should be held in contempt."

The man's eyes narrowed, but he evidently decided to ignore the thrust.

Jack had cut the strings for Mrs. Merryman, and now she was lifting out long-stemmed roses. A card dropped out. Jack stooped to pick it up for her.

Mrs. Merryman's face grew puzzled as she read it. Then she handed it to Jack, while Sue and Corrinne looked over his shoulders to see. They read the words.

"With deepest sympathy, Sybil Lester."

For a startled second no one spoke. Then Corrinne made a mad dash for the roses and started to tear the red petals apart quickly.

"Oh, I hate her, I hate her! She's in back of all this and then to send flowers. The the... the... the hypocrite."

The detective had leaned over and read the card. His voice was suave, yet greedy. "Do I understand that that is an accusation, Mrs. Becker?"

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

THREE YEAR FRIENDSHIP LONG ENOUGH FOR THIS GIRL —PEGGY MUST LOSE MONEY MANIA.

Dear Miss Vane: I am another girl who's been puzzled by the attitude of the man she loves. I suppose it's all pretty easy for you to figure out, but it beats me. He wanted me to give up all other fellows for him and I did. He said he wanted me to wait for him until he could marry and I've done that. To be exact, I've been seeing no one but him for three years. In that time my affection for him has grown very deep indeed. I want to marry him and am waiting for some suggestion of marriage for over a year. I have hinted about a ring, but he doesn't seem to pay the slightest attention. It's his silence that puzzles me. I don't know just how to account for it. What am I to do? My pride won't let me hint any more. I feel that I ought to give him up if there was no real reason for it. He went with another girl for seven years, and then gave her up without any reason at all.—UNDECIDED.

No use crying over spilt milk at the moment, but you should have made darned sure of that young man's intentions long ago—long before you told all the other boys to go way back and sit down.

The one sure proof that the man in the case has his mind fixed definitely on a stroll to the altar is his determination to make an engagement public as soon as possible. When a man wants a girl for his own he doesn't order her to keep other fellows away—he makes darned sure that they'll stay away by announcing his intentions as loudly and as firmly as possible.

Certainly your man's record is not a creditable one. He seems to be a perfect champion for long distance dash for the roses and started to tear the red petals apart quickly.

"Oh, I hate her, I hate her! She's in back of all this and then to send flowers. The the... the... the hypocrite."

The detective had leaned over and read the card. His voice was suave, yet greedy. "Do I understand that that is an accusation, Mrs. Becker?"

friendships and it sounds as if his last fair victim had been given a decidedly bad deal. Don't put yourself in line for some of the same treatment. Get out now. Tell this strong silent hero that either he must get over his tongue-tiedness, or you must get over your affection for him.

You can be as tactful as you care to. You might tell him that you're thinking of accepting a few invitations from other men, since you're not really engaged, and it looks rather foolish of you to stick so closely to one chap when there are no wedding preparations to make such devotion seem worth while.

Tell him the ugly facts of life in any way you choose, but don't waste any more time on such a lazy suit-or.

JUST ANOTHER FOOL: You wrong yourself, my girl. You've shown singular good sense in refusing to tie yourself up to one man while you still have no definite prospects of marriage. Read the sad story of Undecided, above, and figure out how sensible you've been.

Of course it's rather sad to have your hero going off in a temper because you won't live for him exclusively but you'll probably set over him one of these days—and you'll have the satisfaction of not having pinned your faith to a few idle promises.

You see how Undecided has wasted three years of her life—unless her man is merely suffering from paralysis of the tongue and not backing out on his original agreement as would seem apparent—and you certainly would not want to be in her shoes at the moment. Then buck up and stop worrying about what might have been.

If the departed love is really in earnest, he'll come back again one of these days ready to find plenty of excuses for you, and only too anxious to prove that his chatty conversation about marriage has real foundation.

PEGGY: Stop thinking about money for a while. I mean it. Get a new urge. Take up anything. Bury yourself in a grand literature if need be. You'll find that this fear of poverty will decrease as you surround yourself with real live interests. Fear can be crowded out of the mind with positive thoughts of optimism and courage.

ARBITER DECIDES ISLE IS OWNED BY FRANCE

Paris —(P)— After 22 years the king of Italy, Victor Emmanuel, agreed upon by France and Mexico as an arbiter to determine ownership of tiny, desolate Clipperton rock, Pathe ocean island, has found against Mexico and awarded the island to France.

His decision, filed yesterday at the Quai d'Orsay, rules that the Mexican government, which has kept a small garrison of men there since 1917, must quit the island and surrender sovereignty to the French government.

Clipperton rock lies 870 miles off the west coast of Mexico in latitude 10 north and its sole importance, it appears now, is that eventually it might be used as a seaplane base.

RESIGNATION OF KIMBERLY FROM BOARD REFUSED

Council Also Turns Down Ordinance Proposing School Board Elections

Neenah—The city council Wednesday evening refused to accept the resignation of D. L. Kimberly as a member of the board of education. Mr. Kimberly and the board will be notified of the action. The council accepted the recommendation of the committee on ordinances and printing not to accept the ordinance proposed to abolish the board of education and place the election of the board members in the hands of the voters. The council prefers to have the voters petition for such a move, it was pointed out. The ordinance, as presented by Mrs. Helen K. Stuart, provided for the abolishment of the board of education and election of the seven members by the public.

Mr. Kimberly indicated that his reason for resigning was based on the fact that he is too pressed with his own business. At the last school board meeting, his resignation as president of that body was not acted upon, pending the action of the council in accepting his resignation as a member of the board.

I reply to a communication addressed to the assembly of Neils Nelson proposing that truck owners be compelled to pay a license fee, Mr. Larsen stated he is in accord with the idea. He promised action in this direction would be forthcoming. He said the highway commission is working on a measure covering the use of roads by trucks.

The city of Manitowish presented a request asking Neenah officials to cooperate in having the "small loan act" repealed.

Adopt Two Ordinances
An ordinance covering regulation and sale of non-intoxicating drinks, which is the same as the one now in force with exception of the addition of a clause providing for a $200 cash bond from applicants for a license, was adopted, as was one relative to manhandling and selling non-intoxicating beverages without first securing the proper license.

This is practically the same as the present ordinance which regulates the place in which the beverage is offered for sale, prohibiting selling liquors in booths or side rooms or behind any sort of screen.

Clearing the river bed and construction of the cement wall between Theda Clark hospital and the Chicago Northwestern railway bridge has wiped out the $3,000 appropriated by the council for this purpose, and the board of public works requested another appropriation of $5,000. The request was granted. The council approved of the resolution accepting the license of the Chicago Northwestern railway company for installing sewer and manholes beneath its bridge property over the Fox river.

Alderman E. C. Aylward of the committee on fire department reported that plans for a new fire station, submitted by Auler, Jensen and Brown, had been approved, but asked for more time for consideration before presentation to the council.

The revised plat of Airport Heights as recommended by the planning commission, was adopted. Mr. Pelange, Milwaukee, owner of the plat located just outside the south city limits, asked that this action be taken in order that the people who have purchased lots there can secure abstracts by lot and block numbers in order to place their property on record. It was decided that the plat was presented to the planning commission twice and disapproved because Henry St., at Cecil St., did not conform with the rest of the street plan. These objections were corrected.

A contract was entered into with Henry Oetke for furnishing a carload of coal for the city hall at $8 a ton. The price was the lowest of several bids. Action on permitting James P. Hawley to permit the use of the city hall auditorium was deferred until the Feb. 18 meeting, as the committee report was not completed. The council voiced its dissatisfaction over the proposal to build a filling station at the corner of S. Commercial and Franklin-ave. The site is too close to Kimberly high school, it was pointed out. The attorney will investigate the matter and report by December. The first ward into two precincts, it will be necessary to engage five more election officials for that part of the city east of Oak St. The first ward aldermen will suggest officials before the April election.

Charles Sommers and Edward Hopfensperger asked permission to secure their water supply for their Nicoletskan home from Neenah. The matter was referred to the water commissioners. Bills totaling $16,655.46, including one for completing the retaining wall, were approved. A license to sell non-intoxicating drinks was granted Victor Larson at 106 Main St.

Monthly reports of Justices George Harness and Chris Jensen, the police and poor department, were referred to City Attorney John O'Leary. The council accepted $100 from the Frank Walker estate for perpetual care of a lot at Oak Hill cemetery. All members of the council were present.

Following adjournment, a meeting of the aldermen was held in the mayor's office to discuss school affairs. The call for the meeting was made by the committee on education, of which Alderman Edward Hanson is chairman.

COURT PERMITS FRITCH TO PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Neenah—Leon Fritch, charged with stealing a barrel of denatured alcohol from the Commercial Oil company station on N. Commercial St., was allowed by Judge Elias Spensler in Municipal court Thursday morning to chance his plea of guilty to not guilty. Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock, was set for date of hearing. The jury will be struck on Feb. 23. Fritch is ordered to furnish a bond of $500 to guarantee his appearance, and in default of the money was returned to Winnebago to jail to await the hearing.

Fritch is on parole to the state board of control after serving time at the Green Bay reformatory for forgery in July, 1928.

FLOATING STOCK OF MANY FIRMS BEING REDUCED

Fixed Trusts Are Gradually Buying Up Issues of Best Companies

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931 by Cons. Press
New York—(C.P.)—That the floating supply of a dozen to 20 prominent industrial, public utility and railroad stocks is being steadily reduced through purchases by fixed trusts is becoming daily apparent. Something of the same situation developed in 1929 when the management trusts and the trading corporations concentrated their buying power on the "blue chip" issues and bid against each other for them with the result that they sold at greatly exaggerated prices.

The portfolios of the 100 or more fixed trusts that are now in operation, of which probably a score represent the major part of the $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 publicly invested in them, look much alike. They include the most representative members of the three major groups of stocks and together are regarded as the most satisfactory cross section of the general market list. They have been selected on their record for earnings and dividends and for the possibilities that each individual issue holds out for future appreciation.

Many New Trusts
New trusts of the fixed type are being organized daily. Several have come into notice recently that are sponsored by prominent New York stock exchange houses and by investment firms. They have been set up in response to a public demand for an investment at a comparatively low unit price which has a diversified character and is supposed to represent the best judgment of the price and continuance of dividends. The feeling is that the fixed trusts will be popular so long as markets are in their present unsettled state. With a return to something like normal conditions, the public may be expected to make its own selection of individual stocks and try to get the most of them rather than restrict its investment to a composite list.

Recently a compilation has been made by a stock exchange house of the holdings of a group of 30 general management and fixed trusts. This shows the degree to which purchases have been concentrated in a select list of popular shares. It also indicates how much greater amounts have been placed in specific issues by fixed trusts and by those of the management type.

Hold Many Shares
For instance, fixed trusts hold about 70,000 shares of Atchafalpa Railroad common compared with 10,000 shares in a comparative list of general management trusts and nearly 47,000 of Canadian Pacific, with none shown in the other trusts whose portfolios have been examined. Blocks of 61,000 shares of Illinois Central and Louisville & Nashville are also in the fixed trusts with none in the management trusts. The holdings of New York Central by the fixed trusts are more than double those in the management trusts. The same is true of Pennsylvania shares which amount to $8,000 in one case and 40,000 in the other. In Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, the total holdings of the fixed trusts are about 136,000 shares compared with 45,000 shares in the general management trusts.

The differences seem to be smaller in the public utilities than in the railroad list. General management trusts hold over 185,000 shares of

INVESTMENT TRUSTS INVITED TO MEETING

Chicago—(C.P.)—The Chicago Curb exchange, it was announced today has invited representatives of all fixed and unit type investment trusts to attend a general meeting in Chicago March 2 and 3. Secretary Maurice J. Loeb said that "the rapid progress of the industry has resulted in the creation of a large number of trusts with widely divergent policies and methods. It is expected that the conference will tend to clarify in the minds of both the financial community and the investing public the utility and benefits of unit type securities."

The Chicago Curb exchange has attained the leading position as a market for fixed trust shares. Of the 39 fixed trust issues that have been admitted to stock exchange listings, 32 are on the Chicago curb. Officials estimate that around 150 million shares of all trusts have been issued with a total market value of more than a billion dollars.

DIRECTORS' MEETING
The monthly meeting of the Appleton vocational school board of directors was held this afternoon in the school building. A dinner was served by students in Miss Mable Burke's cooking classes.

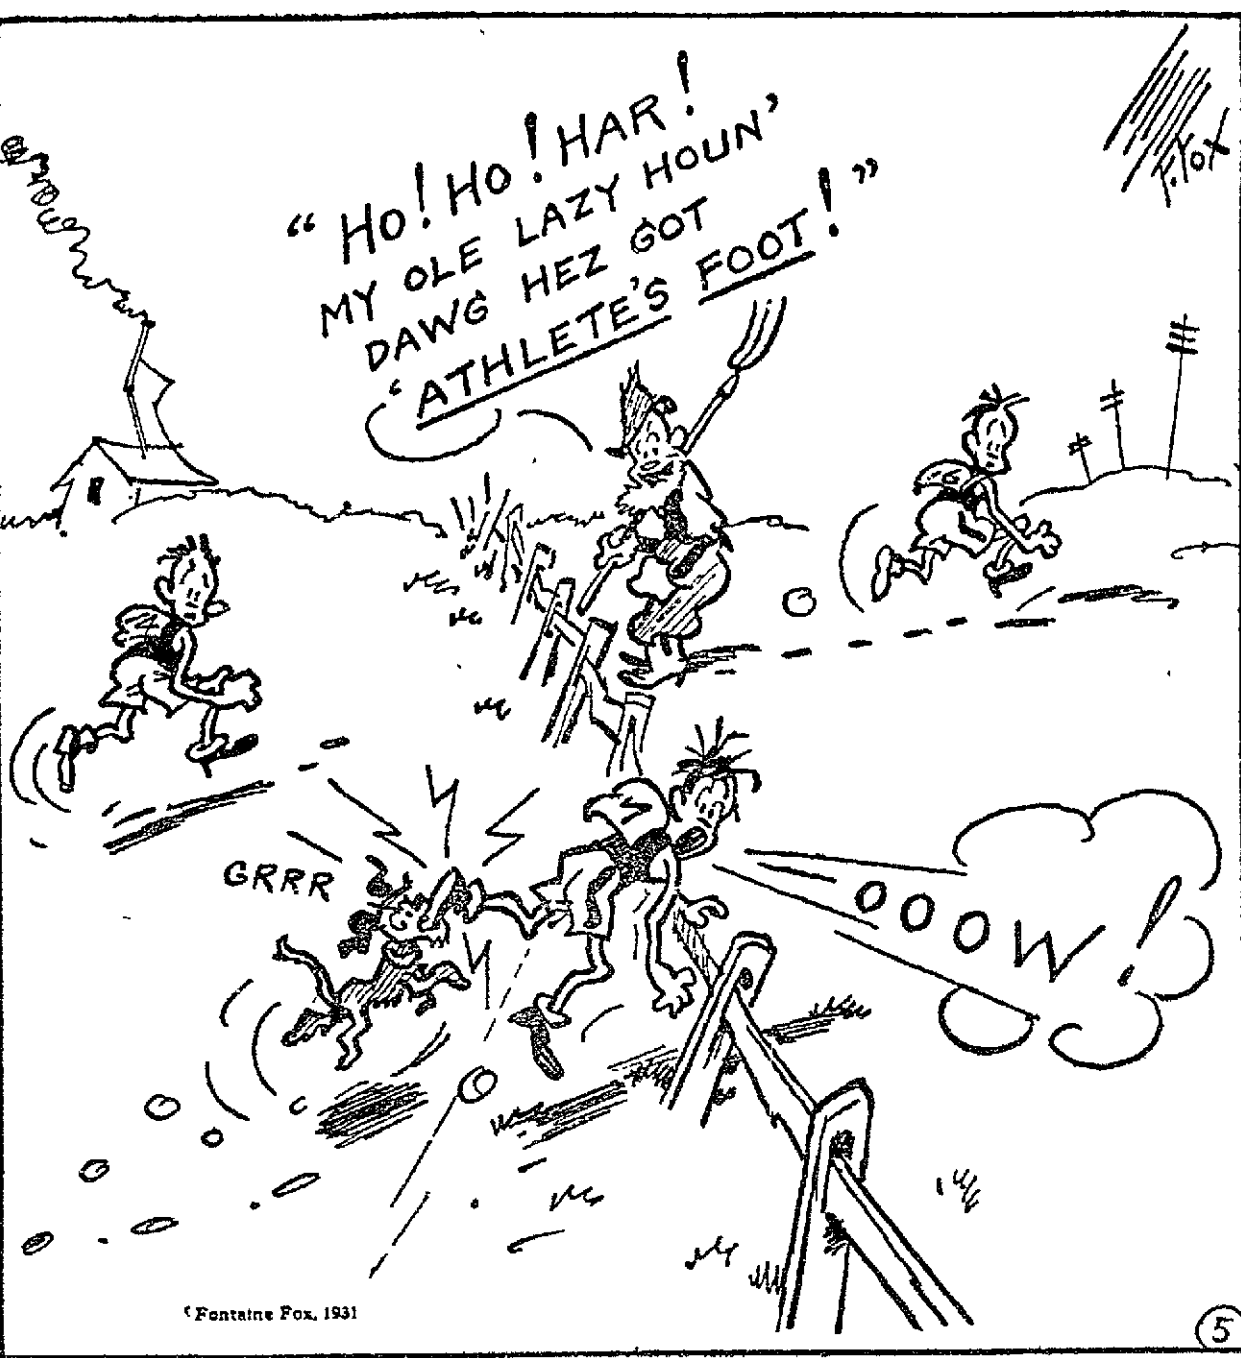

Commonwealth & Southern against 167,000 shares by the fixed trusts. On the other hand, the fixed trusts have about 8,000 shares more of Consolidated Gas of New York than the management trusts. They hold over 105,000 shares of General Electric against 92,000 shares by management trusts, and nearly 113,000 shares of North American Company stock, or nearly ten times as much as that by the older companies. United Gas improvement stock is listed at over 74,000 shares by the fixed trusts, with apparently none shown in the portfolios of management trusts analyzed. Prominent industrials like Steel common are four times larger in fixed trusts than in the management trusts. In Westinghouse Electric, the figures are 69,163 shares for the fixed trusts and 19,300 for the management trusts and in Woolworth 64,403 shares against 31,000.

The portfolios of the fixed trusts are nearly all composed of common stocks. Investments in preferred stocks and in bonds are insignificant and rare. The effort of the managements of the newer fixed trusts has been in two directions, first to take advantage of the present low prices of stocks and either to limit the portfolio to shares of low price or to provide for liquidation of the trust within a few years, and second, to reduce the so-called "load" which the purchaser of unit shares had to absorb, and which, in numerous instances is said to be from 8 to 10 per cent, and has been known to be much higher.

Call Meeting To Organize Fox River Valley Softball Loop

SEVEN CITIES WOULD ENTER IN NEW LEAGUE

Conference Will Be Held Friday Evening at Service Bakery

REPRESENTATIVES of softball teams from Fox river valley cities will meet at the service bakery to make plans for a new league.

Appleton will be represented by R. L. Lewis, New London by M. J. Henz, Kimberly by Bud Courchane, Kaukauna by R. De Bronx, Menasha by G. M. Wickham, Neenah by Armin Gerhardt, and Oshkosh by V. Hoffmann. Any other valley cities wishing to send a representative to the meeting may do so.

The league, started as a shop sport about six years ago has had tremendous growth in the valley in recent years. Leagues have been organized in all cities, some boasting three to five loops. Independent teams also have sprung up, their opponents being other league teams which played on "off" nights and other independent teams.

In recent years the squads have turned to outside competition with the result that acquaintances have sprung up between players in various valley cities. There was talk last season of a valley league but it was turned down because the season had already started.

Friday's meeting which is being called by R. L. Lewis, representing Appleton, is the first step to plan an inter-city league for 1931 and with three months in which to perfect organization, the loop may become a reality.

BLUE STREAKS TO PLAY AT WAUSAU

Will Meet 1930 State Amateur Champions Sunday Afternoon

Appleton Blue Streak hockey team will travel northward Sunday to where they still have ice and meet the Wausau hockey team, amateur champions of the state for several years. The game is to feature a few winter sports program at the northern city.

The streaks have won nine straight games this winter cleaning up on everything in the Fox river valley. Only one or two games have gone overtime indicating the Appleton aggregation has definite claim to sectional honors.

Among the claims is that of being Fox River Valley league champions. The streaks defeated Fond du Lac and Oshkosh twice and Neenah once to win the title. A game with Neenah remains to be played if weather in this section over permits. However, the outcome of the game will not decide the title.

The streaks are also booked to show at Port Atkinson next week in a state amateur hockey tournament being held there. The hockey meet is part of a winter carnival program which will show ice skating from all over the country.

Among the men expected to make the trip to Wausau are Joe Shields, Eddie Helms, Dudley Schultz, Frankie Buss, Bill Kiley, Francis Rooney, Kitty Kitzinger, Percy Sharpe, Carl Newland, Chet Davis and Manager John Roach.

Babe

Says He'll Get His Homers

New York—(P)—The prospect of having to hit a changed ball during the 1931 baseball season does not worry Babe Ruth at all. In fact, he rather likes the idea.

"Say, you can make that ball all over and let the stitches stick out like grapevines and I'll still hit it," was the Babe's opinion on the recent changes in the pellet. "I hit that ball when it was said to be dead, back in 1918 and 1919, and I sailed a lot of those 'dead' balls a lot of feet."

"The ball will go if it's hit. The good thing about the new arrangement is that a lot of poorly hit balls won't go so far. There won't be the percentage of fluke homers there has been."

GUY BUSH LAMENTS Chicago—(P)—Most major league pitchers are looking forward to using the recently adopted "dealer" baseball, but Guy Bush, Cub right hander, is less concerned about throwing the ball, than hitting it.

"Bush, who fancies himself as a batsman, today had no time for discussing the possible advantages to hitters. His most earnest comment was:

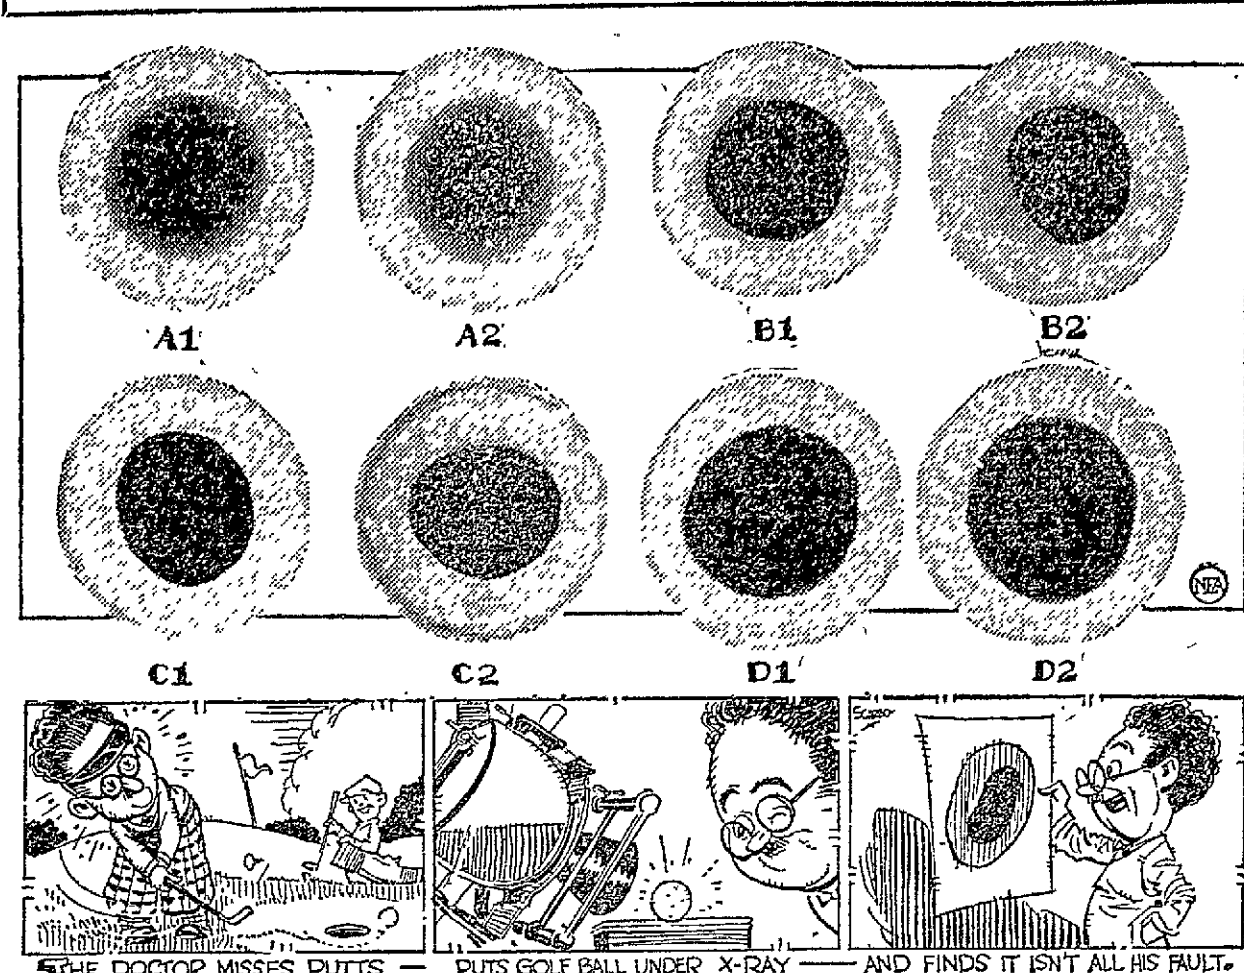

"Just when I was getting all set for a big year with the stick, they make a change in the ball to help out pitchers."

MISSSES GOLF BALL, GOES TO HOSPITAL WITH BROKEN LEG

Hot Springs, Ark.—(P)—Stewart Turner broke a leg hitting a golf ball yesterday.

Turner addressed his ball on number seven tee at the country club, swung mightily and found himself on the ground with a broken leg.

Here's What the Doctor Discovered

Putting Bad? Perhaps You've Been Using Ball That's Off Center

BY ART FOCKE

Written Especially for NEA Service

AYTON, O.—If you are an average golfer, and have trouble with your putting, the fault is probably in your wrists, or your elbows, or your nervous system. But maybe not. There is a fair chance, depending upon how accurate you are, that the fault lies in the center of those new, large and lighter balls you're playing.

Dr. Clifford Weiss is just a fair golfer. If your putting trouble was in your nervous system he could probably tell you something about it. But if you can't putt because your wrists are too stiff, he wouldn't be able to do much for you.

Anyway, the doctor found that his putts weren't going down. He held a consultation with a golf professional, and found that he was doing everything correctly, as nearly as the pro could ascertain.

So the doctor decided to have a look at what makes the pellets go round.

He took a dozen odd balls that he had been using for some time, and

X-rayed them. The result showed that the core which forms the center of the ball was not round. Having made that shocking discovery, the doctor called your correspondent in to the case.

In turn, a golf dealer was consulted. In the interests of science, the dealer agreed to present two balls apiece of each of the four of the more popular 75-cent brands, offered by recognized and reputable manufacturers. The balls were unused, and went directly from their tissue wrappings to the X-ray table.

The results are shown below. The centers of the balls vary in size, shape and density. A1 and A2, of the same brand, are the more nearly perfect of the bunch. But B1 is fairly round, and B2, made by the same company, is nearly oblong. C1 and C2, also of the same brand, are decidedly not round, but have a certain agreement one with the other. D1 and D2 are also varying.

Dr. Weiss drew the conclusion that a ball with an irregular core, the core being the heaviest single part of the ball, would hardly roll true on a slow putt. Now the doctor is trying to get refunds on syndicate bet settlements.

And the sporting goods dealer is trying to show his customers why they should buy balls of the same brand as A1 and A2.

And your correspondent is wondering what golf tournaments, and the U. S. G. A. are coming to. During the Agua Caliente meet recently it was found that several balls, although of the same manufacture, were of different sizes. The committee procured calipers and investigated, but finally ruled that everything was legal, because the U. S. G. A. ruling sets a minimum size, but no maximum.

Someone suggested that all tournaments be equipped with a mechanical engineer. They might add an X-ray expert.

It might not make so much difference to the average duffer, but a variation in size and another variation in the core of the ball would surely cause the average pro to think the thing over.

The prosecution rests.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THERE is no disagreement on the theory that Jack Dempsey, if he makes any fluke comeback at all, must try it this year, but there are at least two outstanding obstacles to the return of Old John.

The first is his lack of an incentive unless the big money lure is too substantial to resist.

The second is the lack of a promoter of the type of Tex Rickard, willing to take a gamble and shoot the works.

There are some other factors, such as the very important one as to whether Dempsey again can get into real fighting condition. For that matter, he rather thinks he could do so, but he admits that the vital urge to attempt another ring battle is largely missing.

"The whole situation has changed, so far as I am concerned," he said in a chat around the dinner table. "When I was fighting for the championship, there was a real incentive. I took a great deal of pride in my ability to stick to the top and even after I lost the title to Tunney, I was convinced I could regain it in the next year."

"That's all over now. I don't like the idea of fighting just for the sake of giving or taking a sock. Big money is attractive and no doubt I could collect a chunk for a go at either Sharkey or Carnera. But I'm fixed O. K. so far as the dough is concerned. I've got a $700,000 trust fund that will keep the wolf from the door."

"I can do pretty well without putting the gloves on. Then maybe in a few years I can settle down to some steady business."

In spite of the business depression that hit the Madison Square Garden box-office a number of heavy welter, the situation is ripe for an outdoor "natural" such as a return Dempsey-Sharkey match this year.

New York has been left high and dry in the heavyweight shuffle so far for 1931, with Strubling and Schmeling slated to fight for the title somewhere in the mid-west, presumably Chicago, and the winner committed to meet Carnera later in the same locality.

Sharkey also is "out in the cold," despite the fact that the Three Dukes of the New York Boxing commission consider him the No. 1 heavyweight.

The Madison Square Garden millionaires might recoup with Dempsey, but they have been embroiled in their own troubles increasingly so since the death of Tex Rickard. Until these are solved or unless there is a big shake-up, the chances are slim that an attempt will be made to regain control of the heavyweight situation, once so firmly dominated by Rickard.

Baseball habits have changed. So has Babe Ruth, but the big fellow regrets the passing of the days when players scrapped on the field or under the stands. Rather, he regrets the lack of old-fashioned fighting spirit in the game, for Ruth's good nature seldom has been upset by an outburst of pugilistic spirit.

He relishes the memory of one such outburst, however. It concerns a short, snappy argument with "Buck" Owens, the umpire. It happened when Ruth was a fast-ball southern pitcher for the Red Sox, before he worked the home run service.

SANTA AND HANSEN IN "NO CONTEST"

Portuguese Heavyweight and Racine Dane, Tossed Out of the Ring

Chicago—(P)—Any plans for building Jose Santa, giant Portuguese heavyweight, into a Carnersized attraction are at a standstill today, pending the regular meeting of the Illinois State Athletic commission next Tuesday.

Santa, six feet, six inches tall and weighing 239 pounds, and Knute Hansen, his opponent at the Chicago Stadium last night, were sent from the ring in the second round after Hansen had gone to the canvas four times, the last time appearing without having been hit. Referee Dave Miller refused to count him out, declaring the bout no contest. The purses of both fighters were ordered withheld by General John V. Cline, president of the National Boxing association and chairman of the Illinois commission.

General Cline said both men would be required to appear before the commission Tuesday and "show cause why both of them should not fight."

The bout was the last of four ten-rounders on a card that attracted the smallest attendance in the history of the Stadium. The count was 4,534 with gross receipts of $10,651.72. Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, making his first start as a heavyweight, knocked out Marty Gallagher of Washington, D. C. in the second round of the third ten rounder.

Harry Ebbots of Brooklyn, outpointed Willie Oster, Boston middleweight, and Kid Francis, Italian Native of South Bend, Ind.

The coed band of the University of Kentucky will make its first appearance at the Vanderbilt-Kentucky game, Feb. 20.

There were what I thought were two as clean strikes as I could put over," said the Babe.

"Owens called them balls. I left plenty, suggesting to Owens that if he went to bed nights he would be able to see straight once in a while."

"One more crack from you and out you go," retorted Buck.

"One more lousy diversion like that and I'll bust you out," boomed Ruth.

The next pitch was a ball, without argument. The fourth, Steve Ruth, was struck down the middle again.

"Ball four," yelled Owens, who upon Ruth rushed in from the box, took a swing at Owens and promptly was ejected from the game after a few wild non-sensical remarks and several wild swings.

"Nowadays I'd get tossed out for even thinking of going a thing like that," bemoaned the big fellow.

WEDNESDAY'S RESULTS

FOX River Paper company broke into the win column in the Industrial basketball league at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night by defeating the cellar champions, Schlaefers Hardware quintet, 27 and 12.

The other game of the evening program saw the Power company quintet beat the Bears 35 and 24, after overcoming some stubborn resistance offered by the youngsters.

Schlaefers and the Fox River staged the first game last night. The Papermakers made good use of free throws and were out in front 9 and 7 when the first half ended. In the second half, P. Gelbke ran wild and scored five field goals to give his team a big lead and a victory.

Y. M. C. A. Bears offered more than ordinary resistance to the Power company and made the second place team step out before annexing a victory. Some consistent shooting by the Bears found the team trailing the Power company by a mere three points, 12 and 15, at half time.

The second half saw Schneller and Remmel get a flock of field goals and the Bears fell behind too far to overcome the lead and van.

WILLIE KAMM STILL MEMBER OF CHI SOX

Chicago—(P)—The name of Willie Kamm is still on the Chicago White Sox roster, but reports, persist that it won't be there when the American league championship season opens.

Manager Donnie Bush will be in Chicago tomorrow or Friday and it is expected he will back to work on a proposed trade with Cleveland, in which Kamm, who cost the Sox $100,000, would be exchanged for first baseman Lew Fonseca. The Sox chances for obtaining Fonseca, however, appear to depend on whether the Indians talk Dick Morgan, who played first base last season when Fonseca was injured, into signing.

Bush was said to have been dissatisfied with Kamm's work last season, and has indicated that Chasmer Cissell, whose purchase price was $123,000, and who has not functioned up to standard either at second base or short stop, will be tried at third.

New U. W. Standards Not Too High Coaches Learn

MADISON—Effect of the new curricular requirements for entrance to the junior class upon the University of Wisconsin's future in intercollegiate athletic competition formed the principal topic of discussion at the midyear meeting of the Wisconsin athletic department recently.

George E. Little, director of physical education and athletics, who presided, led the discussion and at its conclusion announced that he would appoint a committee, which would include several of the senior major sports coaches, to make a careful study of the new requirements for entrance upon the third university year and how the athletic department can best cooperate in meeting the conditions which the new rules create.

One outstanding feature of the discussion was that most of the major sports coaches are not unduly pessimistic as to the effect of the new requirements upon Wisconsin's standing in intercollegiate athletic competition. Most of them pointed out that the new rules are not directed at any group, such as the athletes; that they simply fix new standards of promotion for all students of the sophomore class; and that, in the past, the athletes of Wisconsin have been able to meet all academic requirements quite as well as have the non-athletic students.

Athletes Have High Grades Some years ago, detailed surveys were made of the grades of athletic and non-athletic students and the results showed that the athletes earned a slightly higher average academic rating than the non-athletes. Most of the coaches are of the opinion that their men can continue to do this.

It was also pointed out that the new curricular requirements are not generally understood, as a result of which there has been considerable misinformation circulated regarding them. The new rules provide that only those students who, at the end of their second college year, have an average of 1.3 grade points per credit will be advanced, automatically, to the junior class.

Students having from 1.1 to 1.3 grade points per credit, may apply for admission to the third year and their applications will be considered a committee of five faculty members, headed and appointed by the dean of the college of letters and science.

This committee will consider each case individually, giving weight to the student's high school record, his university record, and the written recommendations of his instructors of the freshmen and sophomore years. A considerable proportion of students so applying will undoubtedly be permitted to advance.

Applies in First 2 Years It was further pointed out that the grade point standards set in the new rules apply only to the first two years; that students will still be graduated upon a basis of one grade point per credit and that they will be eligible for competition as juniors and seniors, upon maintaining the present required average of .3 of a grade point per credit.

The committee which Director Little will appoint to study the new regulations and their relation to athletics will, after it has gone into the whole situation thoroughly, ask for a meeting with the athletic council—the body through the Wisconsin faculty exercises control over intercollegiate athletics—will present the results of its study; and seek advice from the council as to how the athletic department can best cooperate.

One point noted by the coaches was that the new requirements apply only to the college of letters and science. So far as known now, other departments of the university, such as the colleges of agriculture, engineering, law and medicine, will continue to function under their existing regulations.

NAME VALLEY BOXERS FOR AMATEUR CARD

Ahl, Thompson and Taurig Among Boys Meeting Chicago Fighters

Six Fox river valley boxers rated among the best in their class have been signed to oppose the Chicago amateur boxing team which features the next amateur show staged by Oney Johnston post of the American legion, Thursday, Feb. 12 at Armory G.

The Chicago team, candidates for honors in the Chicago Tribune golden tourney is being brought here by Jabber Young, Menasha, well known among valley fistic fans of a few years ago. Young has been in Chicago for several years and actively identified with amateur boxers.

Boys who have drawn assignments to meet the Chicagoans are Han Ahl, Oshkosh, probably one of the best boxers in the valley; Herbie Thompson, New London, a great favorite with Appleton fans and also one of the ranking scrappers hereabout; Zep Taurig, Manitowish, a little fellow who always has given a good account of himself in local ranges; Claude Sackett, another New London youth; and Ray Murphy of Appleton.

The sixth chap is Norman LeFebvre, Green Bay, a stranger in Appleton rings, but reported to be one of the best fighters in the Ancient city. Information about the invaders is more or less lacking. They are reported to be good and if entered in the golden gloves tourney no doubt can give a good account of themselves.

Reserved seats for the Feb. 12 card already are on sale at the usual places.

THOMPSON WINS AND LOSES FIGHT WITH BRUNO AT SHEBOYGAN

Herbie Thompson, New London, won and lost a fight with Tony Bruno at Sheboygan last night.

The judges disagreed at the end of three rounds but Referee Louis Schultz, Milwaukee, cast his vote for Bruno. Most observers figured Herbie deserved at least a fourth round chance and not a few considered the Wolf River youth had won.

Thompson last night denied reports that he intended to withdraw from ring activities for a while. He says he again feels in tip-top condition and indicated he wanted a chance at Bruno in an Appleton ring. Herbie is booked against a Chicago boy here Feb. 12.

Last night the New London youth changed his usual tactics and instead of rushing in on Bruno he boxed the Milwaukeean, made a very good showing and took much less punishment than usual.

HOLY NAME FIVES FROM KIMBERLY WIN OVER OSHKOSH

School Team Beats St. Peters, Society Quint Also Wins

KIMBERLY—The Holy Name Parochial school cagers and the Senior Holy Name Society basketball teams won games from opponents from Oshkosh recently. The Holy Name school squad defeated the Saint Peter team recently in the opening game by a one sided count, 22 to 6. Elmer Vander Velden of the Holy Name aggregation was high scorer for the winners with four field goals.

In the second game the Holy Name society from Kimberly and Oshkosh clashed and the Kimberly team emerged the victor by a 22 to 27 count. The second game was very interesting and at all times close. Only in the last minutes of play did the local team pull out in front to snatch the victory. Courchane, Gossens and Melcher carried most of the scoring for the winners. Drown of the St. Peters squad was high scorer for his team.

The President bowling team of the Appleton Engraving company league copped three games last night and now leads the loop by 7 games. A 556 total by Verhulst who showed scores of 167, 195 and 194 helped the Presidents considerably in their wins, despite a 111 in the second game by Walters. Three absences on the Janitor quint probably was one big reason for the three defeats.

Victories in the first two games gave the Senators a two and one margin over the Guards. Not one of the Senators rolled a 500 series and one of the boys, Abraham, got a mere 112, 135, 141—355. However, a 39 pin handicap came to the rescue along with some mediocre bowling on the part of the Guards in the second game when a 118, 121 and 135 were registered.

DICK HANLEY WILL RETURN TO EVANSTON

Evanston, Ill. —(AP)—One more football coach is out of the market. Dick Hanley has decided to return to Northwestern.

At Spokane, Wash., yesterday Hanley said he believed his best opportunities were at Northwestern. Athletic director K. L. Wilson returned the compliment by saying: "We are heartily pleased with Hanley's work at Northwestern. We feel he is one of the best coaches in the country and expect to have him with us a long time."

M'LARNIN CAN HAVE KING TUT ANYTIME

Chicago —(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, baby face wallflower from Vancouver, can have a match with King Tut, 24 second knockout conqueror of Billy Petrolle, if he wants it.

Nate Lewis, match maker for the Chicago Stadium, today dispatched an offer to McLarnin to meet the wild young man from Minneapolis either on Feb. 29, or March 6.

The Atlanta Professional Golfers' association has announced plans for forming a pre-amateur golf league.

Penn's Action Is Blow To Intercollegiate Sports

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
Copyright 1931

NEW YORK—Action of the University of Pennsylvania in taking athletics merely a part of the university system, no more important than any other department, with all sorts of radical reforms applied, is the most astounding blow at intercollegiate athletics that has ever been made by a university important in the athletic world. True, Columbia once dropped football, but in other respects the system of sports went on as usual; and in any case Columbia did not occupy the position in intercollegiate sports that the old Penn holds.

At one fell swoop coaches are to have the same status as professors and will be paid for their services.

KIMBERLY HIGHS PLAY AT SEYMOUR

Outcome of Game Will Have Direct Bearing on Little Nine Title

KIMBERLY—The Red Devils cagers from Kimberly high school have been worked to extreme fr—the coming engagement Friday when they clash with the strong Seymour team in a crucial game which will have a lot to do with the conference championship. The game is to be played at Seymour. The Kimberly lads have been out on the court every night this week Monday and after school session was held on Tuesday the Kimberly coach had his cagers out for an evening practice. Wednesday evening the strong St. John high school squad from Little Chute came over and clashed with the Red Devils in a practice scrimmage.

The Little Chute five seemed to be very good practice material and during the entire first half the squads played on a par. In the second half the Red Devils showed superior ability in passing and team work and ran their total up to 25 points while the Little Chute team counted 14 points.

For the first time this year Captain Buck Le May was shifted back to the guard position. This proved to be a good basketball. Coach Hasper has a lot of good forwards but has only two guards that he can rely on. Le May's ability to bring the ball down and his clever passing will strengthen the guard positions. Bourassa was used at the pivot position and seems to be very much at home at that position. He followed up a couple of nice field goals from a mass scrimmage and is a fairly good shot.

EMIL ST. GODARD WINS DOG SLED DERBY

Ottawa, Ont. —(AP)—For the second year in succession Emil St. Godard, the youthful "monarch of mush" from the Pas, Man., is possessor of the Chateau Laurier dog cup and the $1,000 prize that goes with it to the winner of Ottawa's 100-mile international dog sled derby.

In a great duel with Shorty Russick of Flin Flon, Man., through yesterday's final 3 1/2 mile stage, St. Godard held his slim margin to win with an elapsed time of nine hours, 18 minutes and 40 seconds.

Mrs. E. P. Ricker of Poland Springs, Me., the only woman entrant held on well to take third place.

Sports Question Box

Question—Is it true that a coach who has been trained under some great football master has to adapt methods of teaching to the sort of material he finds in various parts of the country and the varied climate and playing conditions. That is, is it true that he cannot use Rockne or Warner stuff intact?

Answer—It is true. He must be adaptable.

Question—Will Jack Dempsey ever fight again and if so would he be good enough to put up a real fight?

Answer—Don't think he will ever do battle again; but if he did fight he would be good for two or three rounds.

Question—A fourth ball is called and the runner on first starts to steal at the same time. The runner overslides and is forced out by the field umpire. The umpire in chief calls the fourth ball. Is the runner to second base out?

Answer—No. He was forced to go.

M. U. HOCKEY TEAM TO MEET GOPHER SEXTET

Milwaukee —(AP)—Marquette University pucksters today were in Minneapolis where they meet the University of Minnesota hockey team tonight and Friday night for a return series. In two games here Marquette tied the Gophers, 1 all, and defeated them 6-3.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—ROCKY KANSAS, former lightweight champion whose real name is Rocco Tozra, is one of the wealthiest retired boxers. His bankroll is estimated at $500,000.

Rocky was ready to retire before he won the championship. He was offered a bout with Richie Mitchell in Buffalo and only reluctantly accepted it. He was as much surprised as anyone else when he knocked out Mitchell in the first round. After stopping Mitchell, Rocky began collecting purses in a big way, finally winning the championship. He moved into an exclusive residential district, taking a home next to the residence of a state supreme court justice who helped him invest his earnings. Most of his money is in apartment houses.

SHARES OF MIDDLE WEST DISTRIBUTED ALL OVER COUNTRY

Company Is Holding Organization Controlling Many Subsidiaries

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
(Editor's Note: This is the thirty-second article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York—Under the direction of an able and aggressive management the securities of Middle West Utilities Company have achieved a wide distribution, every state in the union being represented on the roster of stockholders. The company is a holding organization controlling subsidiaries which serve communities in thirty states. Because of the acquisition of additional properties, earnings have increased rapidly during the past decade.

Funded debt consists of $50,000,000 in serial notes, maturing $10,000,000 annually July 1, 1931 to June 1, 1935, inclusive, all except the nearest maturity carrying a 5 per cent coupon. The $10,000,000 due this coming June is a 4 1/2 per cent issue. All of these notes are convertible up to December 31, 1932, in 20 shares of the company's common stock, a privilege which has no present value but may be profitable at some time in the future.

There are two issues of stock, a $6 cumulative convertible preferred, Series "A," and a common of no par value. Each share of the $6 preferred carries two warrants entitling the holder to purchase up to the close of the present year, one share of common stock at $40 a share, and up to December 31, 1932 one share of common stock at $5 per share. In this case also the present market price of the common is well under the level at which the warrants may be exercised.

The $6 preferred, selling around par, gives a liberal return, quality considered. Preferred shareholders have the option of taking their dividends in cash at $5.00 or in 3/80ths of a share of common stock. Dividends on the common are paid at present in common at the rate of 1/50th of a share quarterly. For the calendar year of 1929, net available for dividends was equivalent to $41.40 a share on the preferred, and $1.38 a share on the common. It should not be overlooked that there are large amounts in subsidiary funded debt and in subsidiary common and preferred stock outstanding, all of which have a claim on earnings prior to that of the parent company.

At the same time, it is not to be expected that any great rush will follow in Pennsylvania's train but for most important institutions such as Yale, Harvard and Princeton, as well as for colleges of the various conferences throughout the country, much of the emphasis that Pennsylvania has placed on athletics does not exist and has not existed for years. Also in limiting salaries of coaches the big three and other universities have preceded Pennsylvania in the step she has now taken. Just the same, this action of Pennsylvania, than which no college was more wholeheartedly committed to sports, is surely going to start something and you'll hear things popping all over the country as a consequence.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"AQUARIUS"
If February 6th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date are favorable the first half of the day. Take Kipling's advice and get your hardest work done before lunch and let the rest of the day look after itself. Those who have money to invest are advised to keep clear of speculation, and better still to wait!

The child born on this February 6th will be freedom-loving, mischief-loving, and pleasure-loving. It will have a live spirit, an active mind, and a keen sense of humor. It will be frank and straightforward in both its speech and actions, and it will make more friends than enemies through life.

You are one of the world's silent people, and you have the reputation, like many silent people, of having strong wisdom penned up somewhere within you. If your tongue is not always busy, your eyes and mind are. You know how to keep your finger out of the pie and your tongue in your cheek. When you do say anything, however, it is usually worth listening to, and your words show thought. To attend to your own business and to let others do the same, is your policy in life.

Nothing makes you more miserable than indecision, and no grass grows under your feet, when once a decision is made, and prompt action follows. Life to you is not all work and no play, and although you do not necessarily make a lot of noise about your fun, you have it nevertheless. You have a dry sense of humor, and you are more of a chuckler than a laughier.

You have refined tastes, and are very particular about your person. YOUNG GIVES HIS VIEWS ON BANK SYSTEM

Would Put All State Banks Under Federal Reserve Board Control

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — (CPA) — Owen D. Young, author of the famous Young plan of international finance, appeared Wednesday before a senate sub-committee in the role of analyst of America's banking system.

While Mr. Young is a director of the Federal Reserve bank of New York and at the same time chairman of the board of the General Electric company, he gave for the most part his personal views based upon a long and intimate observation of the relationship of business and banking.

First and foremost Mr. Young declared his firm belief that all the banks in the United States should be compelled by law to be members of the Federal Reserve system even though they retain their state banking charters. He said that the phrase "member of the federal reserve system" on the window of a bank nowadays was construed by the public to mean close supervision, but that because of the fear that banks would withdraw from the Federal Reserve system if too carefully supervised the examinations have not gone far enough in the case of state banks. Mr. Young pointed out that of the seven thousand bank failures in the last ten years five out of every six banks which had closed were state banks.

Against Divided System
Although reiterating his belief in states' rights Mr. Young said he did not think the nation could make progress under a divided banking system and that he was much surprised that in the face of the constant gravitation toward federal authority, there should be two banking systems competing with each other and that two-thirds of the nation's banks should be outside of the federal reserve system.

On the subject of affiliated securities companies Mr. Young expressed doubt whether they should be permitted, but he was sure on the other hand that if they should continue to exist they should be subject to frequent examination and be required to make their condition known to the public periodically.

Looking back over the last few years, Mr. Young thought that the Federal Reserve bank of New York was right and the Federal Reserve board was wrong in the two opposing theories as to the advance of the redempt rate. He argued that the Federal Reserve bank did not begin soon enough, however, to recommend reduction in the redempt rate and that he was just as much to blame as the other directors of the Federal Reserve bank for not insisting upon a check on the expansion of credit in the year 1928.

Rates Justified in 1927
As for 1927, again looking backward and in the light of subsequent developments, Mr. Young expressed the view that while the Federal Reserve board was justified in its low money rates of 1927 he believed that a check should have been applied in 1928. He added that business should have been checked in that same year.

Mr. Young took the same view that Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank of New York, did a few days ago before the senate subcommittee in arguing that "loans for others" should in some way be controlled, particularly insofar as corporations were concerned who loan money to the call money market.

Mr. Young thought that it might be possible to prohibit, or at least make difficult, the lending by corporations of their surplus funds to the call money market. He said that the General Electric company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the United States Steel corporation and other big companies tried to get the example by refusing to invest in the call money market, even though the rates of return were 9 and 10 per cent, but instead put their balances in government bonds, thus foregoing a substantial increase in income.

Asked by Senator Glass, chairman of the senate sub-committee, why these larger companies followed that practice, Mr. Young replied it was recognized that sooner or later

City People Hunting For Free Lands

Washington—(CP)—Thousands of city dwellers are seeking to find out if there's a place for them in the big open spaces of the west.

At a rate of 400 to 600 a day their letters are piling up at the general land office. They want to know how to go about filing claims for homesteads on public lands. Long-time employees of the land office recalled today that in each of the depressions of the past 30 years, applicants for government lands doubled and trebled. They are following the precedent now in even greater proportion but the news they get is less encouraging.

For little if any of the public domain remaining is suitable for farming and the land office in giving applicants instructions on establishing claims adds that warning.

Most of the letters come from the thickly populated urban centers of the east and central United States. Thousands of the land seekers belong to the "white collar" class of workers, who despite agriculture's troubles fondly believe it would be easier to grow the food they are finding it difficult to buy.

Many letters, however, come from farmers in the east who want to move, and a good proportion is written by sons of farmers who strayed

REMEDIAL TEACHING IN ENGLISH SHOWS WORTH

Remedial teaching in English shows progress in the semester's work at Appleton high school. Freshmen tests were given to sophomores in September, which was followed by the process of remedial instruction based on the weakness of subject shown in the tests. The follow-up tests given in January show a decided improvement in punctuation and grammar which scored the lowest ratings in the first tests. Each of the subject parts show a gain: punctuation, capitalization, grammar, and sentence structure were rated.

Members of the English department include Miss Adela Klumb, head, the Misses Minnie Smith, Ruth Loan, Borghild Anderson, Alice Peterson, Olga Keller, Mary Carrier, Ruth Becker, Sophia Haase.

During the fiscal year ended last June 5, 424,550 homestead entries were recorded. The year before they were just more than four and a half million. Records for the last six months are not complete but officials estimated today the total of entries and applicants would run well into the millions.

SNOW AROUND TRUNKS HELPS TO SAVE TREES

Madison — (AP) — Piling snow around the trunks of evergreens and shrubs will save many trees from the effects of last summer's drought, E. L. Chambers, state entomologist of the department of agriculture and markets, advises in a bulletin issued today. In many sections, the ground is dust dry a few inches below the surface and exceedingly heavy rains will be needed to supply moisture such expansion of credit would be followed by a speculative orgy.

Mr. Young's knowledge of the intimate details of banking were reflected in his testimony and members of the committee interrogated him not only on banking practice but on questions relating to general business. The committee is trying to find out what amendments to the federal reserve act should be adopted and the experience therefore of men like Mr. Young who have been intimately identified with the discussions in the principal center, namely, at the Federal Reserve bank of New York, are being sought as a basis for strengthening Federal Reserve law.

How to Escape FLU

Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.

1 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.

2 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.

3 Above all, avoid catching colds. They lower your resistance to the flu germ. Ward them off. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. If you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this will relieve the soreness and reduce the inflammation.

4 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

Chapter 8 THE BORROWED HAMMER

SUPERINTENDENT RICHMOND'S curiosity regarding the mysterious car Green had seen as he hurried for the doctor was hardly satisfied by the meagre description the chauffeur gave. It was, he said, a Morris two-seater, similar to many in the neighborhood. There was no one in the car and the top was up. The superintendent suggested that Green, knowing most of the cars nearby, could say whose it was.

"There are lots of Morris'es," said Green gruffly. "Like Captain Stirling's, but two Morris'es in the dark are as much alike as black cats. I keep saying I don't know." He glared at the insistent Richmond.

"I suppose the lights were on," suggested Jimmie in his friendly way. "Did you notice the number?"

"No, sir. I was running for the doctor."

But Jimmie's further inquiry revealed that when Green had returned the same way the car was gone. Jimmie exchanged significant glances with Richmond. Granting the story true, it would have been easy for a killer to hide in the shadows of the garden before escaping in a waiting car.

Then they left him and went to the gardener's cottage to verify the story of the hammer.

"That's right," Ben Acres told them. My hammer wor broke. I 'ad borrowed Ted's. He coom along and fetched it."

HE'S COCKOO! I JUST SPON 'IM A HARD LUCK STORY, AN' THE CRAZY LOON NEARLY LAUGHED HIS FOOL HEAD OFF

IMAGINE HIS TELLIN' ME ANY-THING ABOUT HARD LUCK

Thus Green's explanation of his brief absence from the garage appeared confirmed. He was, it appeared, at Bens, when Janet went out to the garage the first time to tell him of Lione's singing and had returned in time to meet her on her second call.

It was, as Donald said the next morning, "a very queer business," but Jimmie smiled when he added, "If Jimmie doesn't clear it up, I doubt if any one will. You believe the chauffeur did it, don't you, Jimmie?"

"I believe he could have done it, but that is a different thing," was the reply. "Yes see, there is really little to work on--apart from those letters, virtually no clues. When it's poison, you have an immediate field of inquiry, and in case of shooting or stabbing, the weapon can be traced. But here a mass of stone is pushed over a defenseless woman below. Motives in many quarters may be alleged in the case of a dictatorial woman. The seat had been moved, but Miss Querling might have done that herself."

"Donald, Nancy and Jimmie were at breakfast on the Wade verandah overlooking the links. The tragedy was inevitably the morning's topic. "Surely," said Nancy, "only a very strong person could throw the figure over."

"No," said Jimmie. "We examined it very carefully--at least, we examined the companion one that is undisturbed. It is beautiful balanced, but a girl could push it over. A child almost might. It felt quite five feet, and I suspect death was instantaneous."

"How terrible!" shuddered Nancy. "Who could have planned such a thing?"

"Was it planned, or was it a sudden wicked impulse?" answered Jimmie. "A premeditated crime may be well thought out, but there is often some oversight, some slip, that leads to detection. The sudden seizing of an opportunity, as this may have been, is far harder to track down."

"I was sorry to hear about Mrs. Frater, poor girl. Is she really bad?" inquired Nancy, changing the conversation.

"Poor girl!" echoed Jimmie. "I pictured her as fat, fair and fifty-five. A typical cook. What is she like?"

"Not that," laughed Nancy. "She might be 27. She is not bad-looking, and is really very kind. Her name is really Daphne Frater. Perhaps Daphne is not a suitable name for a cook. Miss Querling always called her cooks Mrs. She thought it added to their dignity with the tradespeople."

"A tribute to matrimony from an unexpected source. Mrs. Daphne a sweetie?"

"I believe Al Conlett, the butcher's assistant, could enlighten you on that point," smiled Nancy.

"Why is it queer?"

"Don't you think so? Miss Querling fighting for general virginity and surrounded by people who will fall in love! There are the letters, probably written, as Duckworth says, by two people. There is the household on the premises, a policeman in the road in front, Major Giesham on the lawn and Dr. Netherton in the lane. On the unexplained side we have a strange man with his car near the trade entrance seen by the constable; a cloaked woman in the garden, seen by Duckworth; and an empty car beside the fence, seen by the chauffeur. Of course the cloaked woman may have come in the car. If so, who is she? Or the woman may have been a man--not a difficult mistake at dusk--and the car may not exist at all! Richmond thinks Green imagined it."

"The only thing that is clear, Jimmie," laughed Donald, "is that you are fairly intrigued and you want to see it through."

Jimmie had arranged to meet Superintendent Richmond at Dr. Netherton's house at ten. There he planned to supplement the doctor's official report with questions.

"Very," answered Nancy, "and you'll see his dear mother. They are arranging some golf for you. And we'll get you a game with Audrey Winford, our best lady player--one of Don's old sweethearts. Wait till you see her!"

As it chanced, he was to see her quite soon. Superintendent Richmond, passing Fairway in his car, stopped to pick him up and they went straight to the doctor's house.

Dr. Netherton's abode was a little beyond the golf course, on the side farthest from Merrow Craig and at the beginning of the village. Its situation had suggested its name of Corner Cottage. It was quite old and its front garden was a blaze of flowers.

The white-haired lady talking with a handsome girl was undoubtedly the doctor's mother, while Jimmie, seeing the golf bag she carried, decided her companion was Audrey Winford. He was right. The old lady explained that her son was in the surgery and would be out presently.

Audrey Winford was an attractive girl and Jimmie took to her at once, even before Mrs. Netherton introduced them. Not so pretty, she had honest open gray eyes and a humorous twist to her mouth. She looked self-reliant and capable.

"I must be off," she addressed Mrs. Netherton. "Tell Bill I'll expect him tomorrow afternoon." Their eyes followed her down the pathway, her graceful walk neither a stride nor a stouch.

While Jimmie was admiring Mrs. Netherton's flowers the doctor came out the surgery door. Jimmie observantly noted his good-humored face and his kindly blue eyes not, however, missing the touch of obstinacy about the mouth.

Superintendent Richmond soon put his questions as to the medical details it would be necessary to establish at the inquest to be held on the following Monday. Bill gave the information required and everything seemed in order. Then the police officer said: "You and Miss Blake were talking with the old lady for a few minutes, weren't you?"

"Yes, I told her about the cook."

"The cook, I understand," put in Jimmie. "Is fairly hefty young woman. You fit her in bed?"

"Yes. Another 24 hours would see her all right."

"Miss Querling," went on Richmond, "was in her moral spirits--not apprehensive trouble."

"Only the usual trouble."

"What do you mean?"

"She said when Marjorie married she would not get a penny."

There was a pause. The superintendent looked hard at him, and Jimmie had the impression that the doctor regretted his words directly he had said them.

Tomorrow, Bill's silence looks suspicious. Does his secret message to Marjorie seek to cover his own trail?

AIR PEEVES AS HOUSE PASSES INDIAN BILLS

Schneider Measure for $50 Per Capita Payment Goes to Senate

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Washington Bureau, Post-Crescent
Washington—Bills for the Menominee Indians were used in the house of representatives late Wednesday as means of several congressmen to attack their "pet peeves." In the end, the house passed a bill granting a $50 per capita payment to members of the Menominee tribe, which will amount to some $92,000, and a bill permitting them to employ general attorneys to work out legal matters affecting the tribe's assets of timber, land, and water power and its claims against the government. The bills now go to the senate. Representative John C. Schafer of Milwaukee proposed an amendment, which was adopted, to the bill for the Menominee tribe had no intention of employing but whom Schafer has been wanting to attack because he is employed by the senate Indian affairs committee, of which Senator La Follette, Jr., is a member. Schafer says Glavis is a lobbyist.

Lobbyists Attacked
Then representatives Cranston of Michigan and Blanton of Texas took time to attack lobbyists they don't like, and Representative Hubert H. Peavey of Washburn, Wis., expressed opposition to the bill because, he said, some attorneys had gyped Indians in his district out of property.

Representative Edward E. Brown of Waupaca introduced the bill authorizing an expenditure of $20,000 of the tribe's funds for attorneys and Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton introduced the bill for the per capita payment.

When the Schneider bill was up, Representative William H. Stafford of Milwaukee got rid of one of his pet peeves by attacking what he called "the socialist experiment" of the Menominee lumber mill at Neopit. Stafford would have the Indians' timber logged by private concerns.

Every Wisconsin congressman got at least two telegrams from Wisconsin women urging support of the Menominee bills. Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh wiring each of them and other women sending other telegrams.

The house also vacated its action of a week ago in passing the bill authorizing measures for relief of the homeless and destitute Chippewa Indians in Forest, Langlade and Oneida counties, which was introduced by Schneider. Cranston insisted on rescinding passage of the bill because it was passed when he was absent and without consulting him.

CONTROL BARLEY SCAB BY SELECTION OF LAND

Madison—(P)—Control of barley scab, recognized as one of Wisconsin's most serious farm problems, may be effected by careful selection of land and by plowing, R. G. Shands of division, United States Department of Agriculture, said at the Farm and Home Week meeting here today.

"Barley scab has forced itself to be recognized as a serious problem in Wisconsin not only because of the emetic action and unpalatability of scabbed barley which renders it unfit for hog feed, but also because of the reduced yield per acre," Mr. Shands said.

"Scab is caused by a fungus that is carried over the winter on corn stalks. The spores are produced and are carried by the wind to barley. This begins just at the time of heading and may continue until the crop is ripe.

The disease can be reduced considerably by plowing under all corn stalks, since spore production is eliminated in this way and also through careful selection of land for growing barley. It has been found generally true that more scab occurs on the bottom land near streams or other low lands."

Mr. Shands said that there are several areas in Wisconsin in which scab frequently occurs, especially in the southwestern part of the state where there is a great abundance of corn stalks on the fields.

It Is Said--

There's a man in Appleton who wanted to know whether Thomas Edison lived at the Y. M. C. A. It happened like this: Conversation with the gentleman revealed he worked nights and slept but four or five hours during the day. Some one suggested he get two jobs, one for the day time, commenting that Thomas Edison, the inventor got but five hours sleep daily. And the gentleman in question came back with: "Does he live here in the Y. M. C. A."

That Edna Ferber had no intention of making "Cimarron" a cookbook, but if titles count for anything it became one yesterday. A hasty glance through the reserve list at the public library brought to light the fact that one library patron, apparently weighted down with thoughts of broiling steaks and requesting protons, wrote a request for "Simmer On" by Edna Ferber.

That there is one Appleton man who evidently doesn't recognize the authority of the dry agents. At least, he demonstrated this feeling recently when three agents called at his home to make an investigation. The man came to the door and won't listen to the agents. When they produced credentials he snatched them from their hands and refused to give them back. Then according to the story he swung wildly at one of the agents and one of the latter swung at him. Neighbors called the police but when they arrived the owner of the home had gone back into the house and the prohibition agents were discussing ways and means. They left, however, without making a complaint.

That an estimate of the cost of gasoline used in automobiles to bring spectators to the trial of Joseph Freund, who was charged with stealing a calf from Emil Smith, his neighbors, reveals that about $300 must have been spent for that purpose. One curious Appletonian, who still can't figure out why there is all this interest in the trial, declared he thought at least $1,000 was spent for gasoline but delving into figures reveals this: There was an average attendance of 500 per people at the trial for three days. Allowing 300 cars to carry these 500 people to the trial and allowing 25 miles for the round trip for each car makes 75 miles for each car or a total of 23,500 miles traveled by all the cars. Figuring 15 miles per gallon of gasoline leaves 1,563 gallons of gas. At 20 cents per gallon this would total $312.60.

There's Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, an organized group restraining the public from calling railroad porters George, a club protecting society from the now-Tell-one-bore, and a Prohibition league, but somehow no one has yet hit on the idea of forming a Return the Lost Glove club. Maybe half the glove money spent in Appleton is the result of the careless dropping of a left, or right glove on the street, in restaurants, on buses and over bridges and yet no one has come to the fore to protect mankind from this pernicious practice. A receptacle on College-ave, established by the common council with a corner of the $85,000 laid aside for an incinerator, into which stray black gloves, brown gloves, tan gloves, fur-lined gloves and red wool mittens could be dropped, might solve the problem.

consin State Chamber of Commerce building activities in Wisconsin. Directors at a recent meeting expressed the belief that building activities in Appleton are far below normal as compared with other cities in the state.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no mood" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 50c, 60c.

Price Of Rare Books Also Show Trend Of Business

New York—Rare books, as well as steel, cotton and other commodities, are indexes of business prosperity.

Wealthy book collectors, who think little of paying $1,000 to $500 for desirable first editions when business is booming, close up like clams in times of depression, and the rare book business goes into the doldrums.

When times pick up, so does the collecting business, and evidence is at hand that attention again is being directed at those unique and precious volumes that bring the big money when placed on the auction block or disposed of privately.

Two years ago a perfect copy of the first edition of Charles Dickens' "Pickwick" in parts brought $28,000 at auction, a high water mark for the volume; last week at the sale of the library of B. George Uzilio of Pine Ridge, N. J., another copy fetched $13,000.

Like a quotation on the stock market "Pickwick" had been deflated 50 per cent, but still $13,000 is a sizeable amount to pay for a book and likely was considerable higher than would have been obtained say a year ago. In all the Uzilio library realized $60,724 for 1,100 books, an average price of $55.

Another sign of the times was the recent announcement that Miss Barbara Barnes, debutante of 1929, was going into the book business, with the cheapest book in the shop $1,000. "No item of lesser value than $1,000 will be offered at any time and the book shop will stand behind every offering, guaranteeing its authenticity in order that the lucky purchaser may have no misgivings about having invested wisely and safely," says the announcement from the shop with which the society girl will be associated.

That one bookseller has faith that the pocketbooks of rich collectors are being opened again attested by the listing of a first folio of Shakespeare in a London catalog at 18,000 pounds sterling, or approximately $90,000.

Three hundred years ago the stout volume called "Mr. William Shakespeare Comedies, Histories and Tragedies, Published According to the True Originall Copies," could be had for a guinea.

Today perfect copies are scarce. The book offered in London lacks several "points," the catalog noting, however, that "even imperfect copies are now practically unobtainable."

Virtually all of the known copies of the first folio and other early editions of Shakespeare's works are in American and English libraries and the collections of rich bookmen.

SCAN INDIRECT EFFECTS FROM SOLDIER BONUS

Many Municipalities Expected to Abandon Building Programs

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—The direct effect of the proposed cash payment of soldiers' compensation certificates has already been plainly indicated in the "frenzied" situation in government and municipal securities and in decidedly lower quotations for corporation bonds. The indirect effects of the passage of the proposed bill involving a bond issue of $3,400,000,000 are now being seriously considered by state and municipal authorities in every section of the country.

Since the agitation for the bill appeared less than a week ago and Secretary Mellon made his statement as to its consequences, there has been the heaviest decline in the largest sales of government and municipal securities in recent times. The United States treasury 4 1/2s have dropped over 3 1/2 points, with the field on them moving from about 2.30 per cent to nearly 3.45 per cent. A change of such violence both in price and in return is seldom experienced in this group of securities. U. S. Liberty fourth 4 1/2s, held more generally by banks throughout the country than any other single issue, have declined 1 1/2 points, with the change in the yield from about 2.85 to nearly a 3.10 basis.

The fully tax exempt first liberty 3 1/2s have increased their yield nearly 1/2 of 1 per cent. Municipal Bonds Down—At the same time, a list of half a dozen leading municipal bonds, including those of New York State, New York City, Philadelphia, state of New Jersey, State of Missouri and the city of Detroit, have declined from an average price a week ago of 104.71 to Tuesday's average of 102.48, or about 1 1/2 points. This also is a most unusual change in price within so short a time.

Dealers in government and municipal issues have had larger amounts of these securities offered to them within the last few days than they could absorb. There has been heavy selling by the so-called "country banks," which have been frightened by the outlook and have liquidated the prime issues in their portfolios in order to prevent further depreciation in their general bond account. In some instances these banks have carried their bonds for many years and have been able to sell them at a profit. In other cases, the bonds held were recently purchased when the policy of all banks was to establish high ratios of cash and immediately marketable securities.

Treasury Notes Up—It is significant that, while long term government issues have been declining, the treasury notes maturing within the next few months have been advancing as holders of the one have switched into the other.

The indirect effect of the decline in prices of both government and municipal issues will be the cessation of financing to carry out the large development programs that have been set up in the interest of the unemployed. It was remarked Tuesday that the city of New York would not be able to sell its proposed issue of $25,000,000 or $100,000,000 bonds on terms that would make such a flotation possible if the bonus bill is enacted into law. This would mean the suspension of a great amount of work which had been depended upon to relieve the unemployment situation in this city.

It was also indicated that the states of New York and New Jersey, which were proposing bond issues of large size, and part of which were definitely to be used to assist those out of work, could not negotiate terms that would justify debt increases now. The same attitude has been reflected by the authorities of other states who were planning to sell bonds within the next few weeks in order to start development programs early in the spring.

The reversal of the government bond market has also changed the entire program of the treasury department with respect to the refunding of the $1,100,000,000 of 3 1/2 per cent notes which have been called for payment next month. It was expected that full advantage could be taken of the low interest rates and the recently low yields on government paper to retire these bonds with a fairly long term issue and at a reduction in the coupon rate. Unless the attitude of members of congress changes and a moderate bonus bill is put into effect, the treasury will again have to resort to short term notes and pay the same rate of interest on the new issue as it is now paying on the old.

URGES STABILIZATION OF BANK CONDITIONS

Washington—(UP)—Amendment of the constitution to protect the American people from a recurrence of present unstable banking conditions was held Wednesday by Owen D. Young, New York financier, to be the only recourse if it is found that the federal government "has no authority" to apply corrective measures.

Testifying before the senate banking investigating committee, Young said: "We have seen thousands of bank failures and it is a great reflection on the American people if they can't get protection against this condition. And this is a period of prosperity, of disturbed economic conditions, true, but of prosperity."

"If it finally is decided that the federal government has no authority to correct this, I see no way out except through amendment to the constitution."

"We should try the first step, and if it is found not effective, the second. The country can't go on this way."

1,023 FEWER DEATHS IN STATE LAST YEAR

Madison—(UP)—There were 1,023 less deaths in Wisconsin last year than during 1929, the burden of vital statistics, state board of health, announced here today. Tentative computations show that 30,261 persons died in Wisconsin in 1930, a decrease of 1,023 from the 1929 total and 1,512 less than the 1928 toll.

Nearly one-fifth of the saving in lives was effected among children under one year of age, the bureau said. A total of 3,134 infants under one year of age died in 1929 as compared with 3,324 in 1928.

"Tentative computations for 1930 prove that Wisconsin folks are not dying at the rate they used to," the bureau said.

VOTE TO RECONSIDER SCHNEIDER MEASURE

Washington—(UP)—Passage last week of the Schneider bill directing investigation of conditions among homeless Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin was ordered reconsidered Wednesday by the house. The action, restoring the bill to the calendar for future consideration, was the result of a motion by Representatives Cramton, Republican, Michigan, who said an investigation is already being made by the Indian bureau and the measure is therefore unnecessary.

ELEVATORS BULGE WITH GRAIN LOAD

Serious Situation Seen Next Spring as Volume Increases Daily

Superior—(UP)—With elevators at the Head of the Lakes holding the largest amount of grain in years and increasing daily, grain men at Duluth and Superior, as well as over the Northwest, are anticipating a serious situation before late navigation gets underway next spring. Grain men also point out they are in a position to give relief, pointing out "the Federal Farm board is the cause of the situation and it is a problem for the board to work out."

At present there is more than 39,000,000 bushels of grain stored in the elevators at Duluth and Superior, while reports to the Duluth Board of Trade is to the effect elevators at Minneapolis also are heavily stocked. The full capacity of elevators at the Head of the Lakes is slightly more than 60,000,000 bushels, with the "working capacity" between 47,000,000 and 48,000,000 bushels.

One grain man at Duluth forecast that by the end of May the government will own "practically all" of the grain at the Head of the Lakes. He said the farm board agencies now own a majority of the grain stored in elevators at the Twin Ports.

Grain is being received here daily from all over the Northwest, while shipments are negligible. It was pointed out. Receipts average nearly 5,000,000 bushels a month and by April the elevators will be stocked to capacity unless there is some foreign demand.

The action of the government agencies in "piling up the surplus grain" was regarded here by grain men as making it extremely difficult to get prices on future crops. It was pointed out that while a serious situation faces grain men this spring, "even a worse situation will arise next fall."

Shipments from the Head of the Lakes during the 1929 navigation season fell decidedly below previous years, due to the weak demand by foreign markets. One man reported his demand from an exporter was 14 cents a bushel higher than received by Canadian and Argentine traders. This large difference in price was considered unusual, he said, the price difference in other years ranging in fraction cents.

Shower Baths For Snakes Put Into Washington Zoo

Washington—(UP)—Tropical showers to make jungle cobras feel at home, are the latest addition to the new reptile house at the national zoo.

Five of the largest glassed in cubicles now being landscaped to look just like real snake haunts, have been equipped with summery sprinklers to soothe the snakes, especially when shedding their skins. Dr. William M. Mann, director, explained showers of warm water in cages thermostatically-regulated to jungle heat would, quickly create the humid atmosphere so welcome to a big snake when he wriggles out of his old skin.

Large lizards, also, may be allowed to bask in the warm showers, as well as in artificial sunlight of correct equatorial intensity, created by ultra-violet ray lamps.

For reptiles of more temperate zones, an 85-foot skylight of vitaglass has been installed to check effects of the sun's direct rays. Across the building from vitaglass row is another tier of cages under an 85-foot skylight or ordinary glass. Dr. Mann said he would make extended tests to determine in which tier his flock thrives best. Glaziers, painters, and landscape artists are now busily putting the finishing touches on the new house, to be opened to the public the latter part of February.

When it is finished, it is to be a study-laboratory for scientists as well as a place for children to come and gaze and ponder on peculiar creatures. Dr. Mann told of how he had prepared a sequestered upper-flood study room for his visiting fellow scientists. A museum of poisons and their antidotes will be one of his displays, he said. Most deadly of the snakes now waiting admission to the new reptile house is a green mamba from Sierra Leone.

be punished by a fine of not more than $500 nor less than $100 or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than one year or less than three months or by both such fine and imprisonment."
